

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 1/8: 1. Three-question method

RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE

1 PHENOMENOLOGY: what is it like?

2 OBJECT: what is experienced – God, the Holy, Brahman, emptiness, unity?

3 EPISTEMIC FORCE: does seeming-to-encounter justify belief?

TYPES: mystical unity | numinous encounter | conversion | prayer/worship

| revelatory vision | non-dual awareness

CONTROL: intensity and sincerity establish occurrence, not automatically veridical object.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 2/8: 2. William James

JAMES'S MARKS OF MYSTICAL EXPERIENCE

INEFFABILITY: cannot be adequately stated

NOETIC QUALITY: felt as insight or knowledge

TRANSIENCY: usually brief

PASSIVITY: received rather than fully produced by will

“fruits, not roots”: assess transformation in life, not only origin theory

authority is strongest for experiencer, not coercively binding on outsiders plural experiences support openness, but diverse objects complicate doctrinal proof.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 3/8: 3. Rudolf Otto and the numinous

THE NUMINOUS = MYSTERIUM TREMENDUM ET FASCINANS

mysterium: wholly other, beyond ordinary grasp tremendum: awe, majesty, creature-feeling, dread

fascinans: attraction, grace, compelling value

“Holy” includes non-rational numinous depth plus moral/rational development

SACRED != automatically God: an object, place or event may mediate the Holy objection: description can reify culturally trained emotion into an external object.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 4/8: 4. Advaita and Radhakrishnan

ADVAITA: aparokṣabhūti is immediate knowledge of non-dual Brahman not subject seeing divine object; subject-object division is sublated śravaṇa -> manana -> nididhyāsana -> liberating knowledge

RADHAKRISHNAN: integral intuition discloses spiritual unity and grounds tolerance strength: experience is transformative and non-inferential pressure: ineffability vs doctrinal description; private certainty vs public adjudication;

Advaita interpretation may be one conceptual construction among religious traditions.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 5/8: 5. Object models

MODEL	WHAT EXPERIENCE PRESENTS
personal theism	an addressive “Thou,” grace, command, presence
Otto	numinous Holy / wholly other
Advaita	non-dual Brahman; no final subject-object split
Buddhism	emptiness, cessation or suchness without creator
naturalism	altered brain/body state interpreted religiously SAME phenomenological report may underdetermine ontology; object-claim needs interpretation beyond raw immediacy.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 6/8: 6. Veridicality tests

SWINBURNE PRINCIPLE OF CREDULITY: accept seeming appearance unless defeated

PRINCIPLE OF TESTIMONY: generally trust reports unless there is reason not to

DEFEATERS: drugs/pathology | contradiction | prior implausibility | unreliable setting

positive checks: coherence | moral fruit | intersubjective fit | predictive/explanatory value

ALSTON: socially established doxastic practice may confer prima facie justification objection: incompatible religious practices cannot all validate exclusive objects unchanged.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 7/8: 7. Criticisms, replies and public life

FREUD: wish-fulfilment | MARX: social consolation | neuroscience: neural correlate pluralism: contradictory interpretations | ineffability: no communicable evidence

replies: causal explanation does not equal debunking; all perception has neural correlates;

fruits and disciplined practices may distinguish mature experience from fantasy

prayer/worship test object-relations: petition, gratitude, surrender, contemplation public use must be modest: experience may justify commitment without authorising coercion.

ASCII MASTER FLOW – PANEL 8/8: 8. PYQ answer spine

DEFINE type -> describe phenomenology with James/Otto -> specify claimed object

- > distinguish experience from interpretation -> apply credulity/testimony and defeaters
- > compare Advaita/theism/Buddhism -> strongest naturalist or pluralist objection
- > reply -> qualified public verdict

CLOSE: religious experience is significant evidence within a life and practice, but its object is not read straight off the feeling; interpretation and defeater control remain.
