

PANEL 01/12 - DEFINITION AND CATEGORY FIREWALL

+-----+
Pressure/interest group = organised interest seeking to influence public decisions.
Dominant purpose: policy influence; it need not contest for government office.
Party seeks governing office; movement seeks broad change; NGO is a legal/organisational form.
Trade union/professional body/think tank/lobby may act as a pressure group, but is not synonymous.
Overlap follows function and conduct; never classify every NGO or association as a pressure group.
+-----+
v

PANEL 02/12 - CLASSIFICATION MAP

PANEL 03/12 - CONSTITUTIONAL FREEDOMS AND RESTRICTIONS

+-----+
Art 19(1)(a): speech/advocacy -> reasonable restrictions under Art 19(2).
Art 19(1)(b): assemble peaceably and without arms -> Art 19(3).
Art 19(1)(c): form associations or unions/co-operative societies -> Art 19(4).
Art 350: representation for redress of grievance in a Union/State language; not a general lobby right.
Arts 32/226: remedies for enforceable rights; PIL does not make courts substitute for policy-makers.
+-----+
v

PANEL 04/12 - ASSOCIATION, LABOUR AND INDUSTRIAL ACTION

```
+-----+
| Damyanti Naranga (1971): chosen composition/continuity of voluntary association protected. |
| All India Bank Employees' Association (1962): Art 19(1)(c) does not guarantee every object/result. |
| Kameshwar Prasad (1962): peaceful orderly demonstration protected; no fundamental right to strike. |
| T.K. Rangarajan (2003): government employees had no fundamental/statutory right to strike. |
| Collective bargaining and strike legality depend on applicable labour law; violence is separately unlawful.|
+-----+
|
v
```

PANEL 05/12 - PROTEST JURISPRUDENCE

+-----+
Himat Lal K. Shah (1973): streets may host meetings; time/place/manner regulation is valid, but unguided permission power was void.
CPI(M) v Bharat Kumar (1998): no right to call/enforce coercive bandh; strike/protest is distinct.
Ramlila Maidan Incident (2012): peaceful assembly matters; police force must be lawful/proportionate.
MKSS v Union of India (2018): no blanket protest ban; balance protesters with residents/public order.
Peaceful dissent != indefinite obstruction != intimidation != violence.
+-----+
v

PANEL 06/12 - METHODS AND CHANNELS

PANEL 07/12 - INSTITUTIONAL ACCESS ROUTES

PANEL 08/12 - POLICY-CYCLE EFFECTS

PANEL 09/12 - INDIA-CENTRIC ACTOR EVIDENCE

PANEL 10/12 - THEORIES AND DEMOCRATIC LEGITIMACY

PANEL 11/12 - RISKS, VARIATION AND COUNTERVAILING VOICE

PANEL 12/12 - REFORM AND ANSWER SPINE

```
+-----+
| Reform: lobby register + meeting/client disclosure + consultation paper + reasoned response matrix. |
| Add conflicts/recusal/cooling-off, funding transparency, inclusive hearings and participation support. |
| Facilitate peaceful protest with proportionate time/place/manner rules; punish coercion, not dissent. |
| Answer: define -> classify -> channels -> named evidence -> policy stage -> inequality -> reform.      |
| Verdict: organised influence is democratic when access is contestable and public decisions give reasons. |
+-----+
```