

Orientation: Four Rival Responses to Modern Political Order

1

A safe answer example is to contrast class cooperation through trusteeship, totalitarian hierarchy through fascism, and class conflict through revolution as three rival responses to the same capitalist crisis.

2

Synthesis verdict: reading the four doctrines along these same four axes shows that fascism alone answers "equality" with hierarchy and "liberty" with subordination to the leader — this is precisely what places it outside the family of anti-capitalist, broadly egalitarian responses, even though socialism, anarchism and Gandhism themselves disagree sharply on how much coercive state power, if any, is

3

Fascism is essential for the exam candidate as the standard case of a modern totalitarian ideology that rejected both liberal-democracy and Marxism, and as Gauba frames it, a subject of "political pathology" rather than a coherent political philosophy. (PDF pp.64-65)

4

Gandhian statelessness vs normlessness: Gandhi's self-regulated order depends on moral discipline, not absence of social norms. (PDF pp.82-83)

1

He then distinguishes evolutionary socialism from revolutionary socialism: the former compromises with capitalism through democratic reform, while the latter seeks total transformation through revolution. (PDF p.56)

2

Evolutionary / democratic socialism: socialism pursued gradually, constitutionally and democratically rather than through wholesale revolutionary rupture. (PDF pp.56-57)

3

Socialism vs Marxism: socialism is a wider family; Gauba's own exposition includes democratic, Fabian, revisionist and syndicalist variants beyond Marxian revolution. (PDF pp.55-63)

4

Evolutionary vs revolutionary socialism: one seeks gradual democratic transition; the other seeks revolutionary overthrow of capitalism. (PDF p.56)

Fascism: Doctrine, Leader Principle and Totalitarian State

1

Define fascism as an incoherent, leader-led, single-party totalitarian doctrine that rejects liberalism, Marxism and democracy through extreme nationalism, hierarchy and myth. (PDF pp.64-69)

2

Fascism: the doctrine/movement founded by Benito Mussolini in Italy (1919), built from an incoherent bundle of principles rather than a systematic philosophy, standing for totalitarian single-party dictatorship that is intensely nationalist, racist, militarist and imperialist. (PDF pp.64-65)

3

Leader principle: concentration of unconditional authority in a supreme leader/dictator whose will is treated as law, with the individual holding no rights against the state. (PDF pp.66-67)

4

He explains fascism as a reaction against democracy, socialism and communism, built on hierarchy over equality, the leader/single-party state over pluralism, myth/faith over reason, and extreme nationalism aiming at homogeneity rather than the liberal ideal of human equality. (PDF pp.66-69)

1

Mechanism: because premise (a) is read differently at the level of instrument (b), each doctrine proposes a distinct transformative mechanism — parliamentary/administrative reform (Fabian/Webb, §12.1), revolutionary union action stopping short of full anarchism (Sorel, §12.2), moral non-violent resistance and constructive social reconstruction (Tolstoy/Gandhi/Sarvodaya, §12.3-12.4), or

2

Fascism is essential for the exam candidate as the standard case of a modern totalitarian ideology that rejected both liberal-democracy and Marxism, and as Gauba frames it, a subject of "political pathology" rather than a coherent political philosophy. (PDF pp.64-65)

3

On fascism, Gauba narrates its origin under Mussolini, its opposition to liberalism and Marxism alike, its distorted borrowing from Idealism, and its spread (partial, book-period) to Nazi Germany, Franco's Spain and, with weaker parallels, Japan. (PDF pp.64-65)

4

Gauba also frames fascism as counter-revolutionary: it stripped capitalism of democratic and welfare-oriented restraints and left the masses without rights or safeguards. Separately, he characterizes fascism as militarist and imperialist; linking these features into one economic causal claim would require further argument. (PDF pp.65, 67-70)

Anarchism: Voluntary Order, Thinkers and Internal Strands

1

Define anarchism as opposition to coercive state authority, not to all order. (PDF pp.73-74)

2

Mechanism: because premise (a) is read differently at the level of instrument (b), each doctrine proposes a distinct transformative mechanism — parliamentary/administrative reform (Fabian/Webb, §12.1), revolutionary union action stopping short of full anarchism (Sorel, §12.2), moral non-violent resistance and constructive social reconstruction (Tolstoy/Gandhi/Sarvodaya, §12.3-12.4), or

3

Socialism, anarchism and Gandhism each criticize capitalism/coercion while still valuing liberty or equality in some form; fascism is the outlier that explicitly rejects liberty, equality and reason themselves, so it must never be grouped with the other three as a fellow "egalitarian" doctrine.

4

Anarchism forces the exam candidate to distinguish opposition to coercive state authority from mere chaos or disorder. (PDF pp.73-78)

Gandhism: Satyagraha, Trusteeship, Swaraj and Sarvodaya

1

Sarvodaya is the constructive social-order counterpart to satyagraha's method and trusteeship's economic ethic: satyagraha supplies the method of non-violent resistance/persuasion, trusteeship supplies the economic ethic of stewardship, and Sarvodaya names the resulting social goal — uplift of all, beginning with the weakest.

2

Conclusion: an answer that files all "anti-liberal" or "anti-capitalist" doctrines together misses the topic's deepest fault line, which is not liberalism versus its critics but equality-seeking critics (socialism/anarchism/Gandhism) versus hierarchy-seeking fascism (§13 synthesis verdict).

He closes the theme with liberal and Marxist critiques of fascism and a firm conclusion that fascism is a "sick mental and political attitude" that curbs liberty and equality and distorts justice, not a genuine alternative political theory. (PDF pp.71-73)

Classification caution: Sorel is often popularly grouped under "anarcho-syndicalism" alongside genuine anarchists, but Gauba's own text explicitly notes he is not a full-fledged anarchist (Gauba, PDF pp.76-77). His emphasis on revolutionary trade-union action distinguishes him from Proudhon/Kropotkin/Bakunin's anti-state theorizing proper. Present Sorel as adjacent to, not simply
