ARTICLES 124-147, PART V

Supreme Court: constitutional apex + final appellate court

High Courts: State-level constitutional courts subordinate courts: ordinary trial and first-appeal structure

INTEGRATED DOES NOT MEAN UNITARY ADMINISTRATION

CONSTITUTIONAL BASIS / ARTICLE

- ARTICLES 124-147, PART V
- Supreme Court: constitutional apex + final appellate court
- High Courts: State-level constitutional courts subordinate courts: ordinary trial and first-appeal structure

POWER / PROCEDURE

- INTEGRATED DOES NOT MEAN UNITARY ADMINISTRATION
- Article 141 promotes legal uniformity; Articles 226, 227 and 235 preserve local access and control.
- STRUCTURE CARD sanctioned strength 34 including CJI

CHECK / LIMIT

- retirement 65
- seat Delhi under Article 130
- Article 145(3) → at least five judges for a substantial constitutional question.

FEDERAL / RIGHTS IMPACT

- INTEGRATED DOES NOT MEAN UNITARY ADMINISTRATION

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: India replaced Privy Council appeals with a constitutionally integrated judiciary, making the Supreme Court the final national court without displacing High Court control below.

STAGE 01 APPOINTMENT POWER, COLLEGIUM EVOLUTION AND THE NJAC TEST

APPOINTMENT POWER, COLLEGIUM EVOLUTION AND THE NJAC TEST ARTICLE 124 TEXT PRESIDENT APPOINTS AFTER CONSTITUTIONALLY REQUIRED CONSULTATION. DOCTRINE TIMELINE FIRST JUDGES CASE (1981) EXECUTIVE PRIMACY SECOND JUDGES CASE (1993) JUDICIAL PRIMACY; COLLEGIUM CREATED

ARTICLE 124 TEXT → President appoints after constitutionally required consultation.

DOCTRINE TIMELINE

First Judges Case (1981) → executive primacy

Second Judges Case (1993) → judicial primacy; collegium created

Third Judges Case (1998) → CJI + four senior-most judges for Supreme Court appointments

CONSTITUTIONAL BASIS / ARTICLE

- ARTICLE 124 TEXT → President appoints after constitutionally required consultation.
- DOCTRINE TIMELINE

POWER / PROCEDURE

- First Judges Case (1981) → executive primacy
- Second Judges Case (1993) → judicial primacy; collegium created

CHECK / LIMIT

- Third Judges Case (1998) → CJI + four senior-most judges for Supreme Court appointments
- 99th Amendment + NJAC Act, 2014 → commission model

FEDERAL / RIGHTS IMPACT

- Fourth Judges Case (2015) → NJAC invalid; collegium restored
- REFORM TEST transparent criteria + diversity + timely processing, without executive capture of adjudication.

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: The Judges Cases shifted appointment primacy toward the collegium, while the NJAC judgment protected judicial independence without declaring every alternative appointments model unconstitutional.

Concise source and current-control note [FACT] Article 145(3) creates a five-judge minimum, not a five-judge maximum. [FACT] Ratio and bench strength determine binding authority under Article 141.	COMPARATIVE NUANCE [ANALYSIS] Frequent small-bench adjudication improves throughput but can create fragmentation when nationally important issues are not referred promptly. [LIMIT] A later small bench cannot silently neutralise a larger bench; genuine conflict requires reference. [ANALYSIS] Confusing the two converts a case-specific remedy into a general law or, conversely, understates the precedential principle - that actually binds.
