Decision	Exam-safe holding
Kishansing Tomar (2006)	timely local elections are a constitutional command
K. Krishna Murthy (2010)	local political reservation needs distinct constitutional care
Vikas Kishanrao Gawali (2021)	OBC reservation requires the judicially stated triple test

Controlling propositions

- [FACT] Kishansing Tomar v. Municipal Corporation of Ahmedabad (2006) treats timely local elections as a constitutional obligation, subject only to exceptional impossibility.
- [FACT] K. Krishna Murthy v. Union of India (2010) distinguishes political reservation from Articles 15(4)/16(4), requires local-body-specific empirical inquiry for backward-class reservation and ordinarily applies an aggregate 50% ceiling, with Scheduled Area qualifications.
- [FACT] Vikas Kishanrao Gawali v. State of Maharashtra (2021) states the triple test: a dedicated commission, contemporaneous rigorous empirical inquiry for each local body, and reservation calibrated without breaching the aggregate ceiling.
- [FACT] State of Goa v. Fouziya Imtiaz Shaikh (2021) requires a genuinely independent SEC and rejects entrusting it to a serving government officer.
- [LIMIT] Gram Nyayalayas under the 2008 Act are courts; they are not Gram Sabhas, Panchayats or Nyaya Panchayats.

PYQS AND ANSWER PRACTICE

Verified routed Mains PYQs

PYQ 1 - UPSC GS-II 2018, Q15

Verified neutral demand: Assess the Panchayat system and explain the possible financing sources for Panchayat projects other than government grants. 15 marks | 250 words

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] The 73rd Amendment secured Panchayat existence, elections and inclusion, but fiscal self-government remains dependent on State action under Article 243H.

Assessment: Part IX provides three tiers, Gram Sabha, five-year terms, reservations, SEC and SFC. Yet Article 243G/H are enabling; incomplete activity mapping, staff dependence and tied transfers produce political decentralisation without full functionality.

Non-grant sources: State-authorized house/property and market taxes; licence and service fees; water/sanitation user charges; tolls; rent from shops, markets and Panchayat buildings; income from ponds, fisheries, community property and haats; assigned State taxes/cesses; and limited borrowing under State law.

Why important: Own revenue strengthens discretion, creditworthiness and downward taxpayer accountability.

Constraints and reform: Update property/asset registers through lawful survey systems, set fair rates, digitise billing, protect poor users, assign buoyant revenues and professionalise collection. SFC recommendations should guide sharing.

Qualification: [LIMIT] Grants remain essential for poor Panchayats and equalisation.

Verdict: The constitutional tools exist; fiscal autonomy requires States to authorise viable taxes and Panchayats to collect them credibly.

Why this earns marks: It assesses the constitutional system before separating non-grant instruments from grants and ends with an equity qualification.

How to improve: In 250 words, compress institutional features to two lines and devote most space to an Article 243H-classified revenue basket plus one implementation reform.

PYQ 2 - UPSC GS-II 2019, Q13 - cross-cutting

Verified neutral demand: Comment on whether reservation of seats for women in local bodies has effectively weakened patriarchy. 15 marks | 250 words

Model answer

Claim: [ANALYSIS] Article 243D has weakened the monopoly of men over local office, but numerical representation has only partially transformed patriarchal power.

Constitutional shock: Not less than one-third of seats and chairperson offices are reserved for women, including SC/ST women; many States provide 50%. This created a large leadership pipeline and normalised women as public decision-makers.

Substantive gains: Women representatives often foreground water, sanitation, health and welfare; experience builds confidence, networks and future candidacy.

Persistent barriers: Sarpanch-pati proxy rule, household control, caste violence, low literacy/digital access, bureaucratic gatekeeping, no-confidence politics and rotation can weaken independent authority.

Reform: punish proxy exercise of office, ensure direct financial/signature control, provide continuous training and legal support, link elected women with SHGs and reserve leadership offices with adequate tenure.

Qualification: [LIMIT] Outcomes vary; neither universal empowerment nor universal proxy is accurate.

Verdict: Reservation is a necessary structural intervention that has begun to erode patriarchy; support institutions determine whether a reserved seat becomes real power.

Why this earns marks: It gives Article 243D, substantive gains, patriarchal counter-evidence and a qualified rather than celebratory verdict.

How to improve: Use one verified empirical illustration if recalled, but avoid universal claims; preserve space for proxy-rule remedies and intersectional barriers.

PYQ 3 - UPSC GS-II 2020, Q13 - cross-cutting

Verified neutral demand: Highlight the challenges in moving local institutions from functions, functionaries and funds to actual functionality. 15 marks | 250 words

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] The 73rd Amendment constitutionalised Panchayats but left substantive devolution largely to States, creating formally recognised yet unevenly functional institutions.

Functions: Article 243G and the Eleventh Schedule are enabling; incomplete activity mapping and parallel agencies blur responsibility.

Functionaries: teachers, engineers, health and agriculture staff often remain under line departments, so elected bodies cannot direct delivery or enforce accountability.

Funds: Article 243H taxation is under-used, SFCs are delayed or weak, own revenue is low and grants are frequently tied.

Cross-cutting constraints: weak Gram Sabhas, capacity gaps, proxy leadership, irregular data, poor district-plan convergence and digital exclusion.

Path to functionality: binding activity maps, staff placement/control, predictable untied finance, SFC calendars, own-revenue reform, professional support, social audit and outcome-based GPDPs.

Qualification: [LIMIT] State variation is large; strong examples show the design can work.

Verdict: The three Fs must be devolved together and tested by citizen-visible services, not by transfer notifications.

Why this earns marks: It converts the three-F slogan into separate constitutional and administrative mechanisms and tests them through citizen-visible functionality.

How to improve: In 250 words, use a compact Functions-Functionaries-Funds table and reserve the final quarter for a sequenced reform chain.

Routed Prelims demand - provenance without invented answer letter

Prelims route 1 - 2025 GS-I Q91

Verified neutral demand: Constitutional position of Panchayats at the intermediate level.

Doctrinal solution

- [FACT] The intermediate tier is the Panchayat Samiti/block/taluka level.
- [FACT] A State with population not exceeding 20 lakh may omit it.
- [FACT] Territorial seats are directly elected, while the chairperson is indirectly elected.
- [FACT] State law may provide representation for MPs/MLAs and village chairpersons.

Elimination rule: Reject statements making the intermediate tier compulsory in every State or making every chairperson directly elected.

Original solved Mains practice

M1. "The 73rd Amendment constitutionalised Panchayats but did not constitutionalise devolution." Examine. (10 marks, 150 words)

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] Part IX guarantees institutional form more strongly than substantive power.

Named evidence: Articles 243B-243F mandate tiers, elections, reservations and tenure; Articles 243I and 243K require SFC and SEC. But Article 243G says States may endow powers over the 29 subjects, while Article 243H makes local taxation depend on State law.

Analysis: States can comply through elections while retaining line departments, staff and buoyant revenues. Panchayats then have responsibility without authority.

Qualification: [LIMIT] Strong State examples show the framework permits deep devolution.

Verdict: The Amendment settled political decentralisation; binding activity mapping, staff control and predictable finance are needed to constitutionalise its self-government promise in practice.

Why this earns marks: The answer distinguishes mandatory democratic form from enabling devolution through Articles 243G and 243H.

How to improve: For 150 words, retain only the institutional contrast, one consequence and one sharp reform sentence.

M2. Evaluate Gram Sabha as an institution of participatory democracy. (15 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] Article 243A makes the Gram Sabha the direct-democracy foundation of rural local government, while State law and PESA determine its operative power.

Potential: It identifies needs, approves plans/beneficiaries where law provides, monitors works, conducts social audits and gives marginal groups a public forum. Under PESA it protects custom and community resources.

Constraints: poor notice, elite capture, gender/caste exclusion, unreadable records, low quorum, bureaucratic agenda control and weak follow-up convert meetings into ritual.

Reform: scheduled calendars, advance public records, facilitated inclusion, ward-level preparation, social-audit units, speaking orders on resolutions and digital-plus-physical access.

Qualification: [LIMIT] Direct participation cannot replace the elected Panchayat or professional administration.

Verdict: Gram Sabha is transformative when information, voice and consequence meet; without enforceable follow-up it remains consultation without power.

Why this earns marks: It treats Gram Sabha power as conditional on information, inclusion and enforceable follow-up rather than assuming participation.

How to improve: Add a two-column potential-versus-constraint structure and one PESA or social-audit application.

M3. Analyse the fiscal architecture of Panchayati Raj. (15 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] Panchayat finance combines own revenue, assigned State revenue, State grants, SFC sharing and Union Finance Commission supplementation.

Constitutional design: Article 243H enables taxes, duties, tolls, fees, assignments, grants and Panchayat Funds. Article 243I requires SFC review every five years. Article 280 links Union Finance Commission measures to augment State funds for Panchayats.

Weakness: State authorisation is narrow, registers and collection weak, SFCs delayed, grants tied and richer/poorer Panchayat tax bases unequal.

Reform: predictable tax assignment, modern asset/property registers, fair user charges, professional billing, untied equalisation grants, SFC secretariats and public fiscal dashboards.

Current control: [CURRENT] XVI FC rural-local-body operational guidelines cover 2026-31.

Verdict: Grants secure equity; own revenue secures discretion and accountability. A healthy system needs both.

Why this earns marks: It integrates own revenue, State sharing, SFC review and Union supplementation without confusing their constitutional sources.

How to improve: Draw the Article 243H -> 243I -> 280 chain and name one equity safeguard against regressive user charges.

M4. Discuss PESA as a model of tribal self-government. (15 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] PESA, 1996 adapts Part IX to Fifth Schedule areas by placing custom, community resources and the Gram Sabha at the centre.

Design: State laws must respect customary practices. Gram Sabhas approve plans and beneficiaries and hold roles concerning minor forest produce, land alienation, village markets, money-lending, land acquisition and minor minerals.

Significance: It shifts tribal administration from guardianship toward self-rule and complements Forest Rights Act community rights.

Gaps: delayed/inadequate State rules, bureaucratic control, mining/land pressures, weak record access, confusion over consultation versus recommendation and digital exclusion.

Reform: harmonise State laws, map Gram Sabha powers, require documented prior processes, strengthen community-resource records and create independent grievance review.

Qualification: [LIMIT] PESA applies to Fifth, not Sixth, Schedule areas.

Verdict: PESA is constitutionally inspired democratic autonomy whose failure lies mainly in under-implementation, not lack of legal ambition.

Why this earns marks: It preserves PESA's exact legal design, Fifth Schedule scope and distinct decision verbs while acknowledging implementation gaps.

How to improve: Organise the body under custom, planning, land and resources; never describe every Gram Sabha role as consent or veto.

M5. Can digital platforms solve the accountability deficit in Panchayats? Critically examine. (15 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [CURRENT] eGramSwaraj, AuditOnline and SVAMITVA can improve records, traceability and planning, but cannot substitute for devolution or citizen power.

Benefits: integrated plans/accounts, public progress, audit trails, better property mapping, reduced record fragmentation and data for case-specific intervention.

Limits: poor connectivity, shared credentials, low digital literacy, inaccurate data, portal-driven planning, privacy/cyber risks and exclusion of citizens without assisted access.

Institutional point: A perfectly entered plan is ineffective if staff answer to line departments, funds are tied and Gram Sabha resolutions lack consequence.

Safeguards: local-language design, e-Sewa assistance, offline options, independent audit, data-quality checks, public hearings and human decision control.

Verdict: Digital systems are accountability infrastructure; democracy still requires powers, transparent records and organised citizen scrutiny.

Why this earns marks: It evaluates digital tools as infrastructure within constitutional devolution rather than presenting portals as self-government.

How to improve: Pair each digital benefit with a matching institutional risk and finish with an assisted-access safeguard.

M6. "Own-source revenue is both a fiscal and democratic reform." Comment. (15 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [ANALYSIS] Local taxation finances discretion and creates a direct accountability relationship between payer and elected Panchayat.

Fiscal value: taxes, fees, user charges, tolls and property income diversify resources and reduce dependence on delayed/tied grants. Better records under lawful survey systems can expand the base.

Democratic value: Citizens paying visible local levies demand service standards, budget transparency and justification of rates. Panchayats gain bargaining capacity and planning flexibility.

Risks: regressive fees, political reluctance, weak assessment, coercive collection and unequal local bases.

Design: progressive exemptions, affordable lifeline services, transparent rate-setting, grievance mechanisms, State equalisation grants and professional collection.

Qualification: [LIMIT] Own revenue cannot finance equal services in every poor rural jurisdiction.

Verdict: Own-source reform strengthens self-government when paired with equity transfers and accountable service delivery.

Why this earns marks: It links fiscal capacity to downward accountability and balances autonomy with equalisation and affordability.

How to improve: Classify taxes, fees, property income and assigned revenue before discussing collection reforms.

M7. Assess Panchayati Raj as a vehicle of social transformation. (20 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [FACT] Panchayati Raj transforms democracy by relocating representation, planning and accountability to everyday rural life.

Inclusion: Article 243D reserves SC/ST and women's seats; many States use a 50% women's quota. New leadership can alter agendas and aspirations.

Participation: Gram Sabhas, social audits and GPDPs let citizens shape plans and inspect expenditure. PESA adds tribal custom/resource rights.

Delivery: the Eleventh Schedule connects local institutions with livelihoods, water, sanitation, health, education and welfare.

Limits: elite capture, proxy women leaders, caste exclusion, weak three-F devolution, parallel agencies, delayed SFCs and digital barriers.

Reform: protected participation, leadership support, own revenue, staff control, transparent activity maps, social audit and enforceable Gram Sabha follow-up.

Verdict: Panchayats have democratised access to office more than control over the State. Their transformative promise depends on converting representation into authority and services.

Why this earns marks: It combines representation, participation and service delivery while testing each against structural exclusion and weak devolution.

How to improve: For 20 marks, add a brief transformation chain and distinguish descriptive representation from substantive authority.

M8. Design a reform programme to move Panchayats from the three Fs to functionality. (20 marks, 250 words)

Model answer

Claim: [ANALYSIS] Functionality requires a sequenced institutional compact, not isolated grants or training.

Functions: enact binding activity maps for all devolved Eleventh Schedule matters, eliminate duplicate mandates and integrate GPDP with district planning.

Functionaries: create local cadres or place sector staff under Panchayat performance/attendance control, supported by technical pools.

Funds: authorise viable taxes, assign predictable State revenues, implement SFC recommendations, increase untied equalisation and publish fund-flow calendars.

Democracy/accountability: strengthen Gram Sabha notice and records, independent social audits, anti-proxy enforcement, SEC autonomy and public outcome dashboards.

Capacity/technology: continuous role-based training, local-language eGramSwaraj assistance, data-quality audits and privacy safeguards.

Measurement: use the Devolution Index dimensions and citizen service outcomes rather than subject-transfer claims alone.

Verdict: Functionality begins when the elected Panchayat can decide, direct staff, spend predictable money and answer publicly for outcomes.

Why this earns marks: It supplies an executable sequence across all three Fs, democracy, technology and measurable outcomes.

How to improve: Present reforms in immediate, medium-term and institutional phases, with one accountable actor for each phase.

OPTIONAL ADVANCED DEPTH - NOT REQUIRED FOR A CORE ANSWER

Subject: Polity · Tier: Advanced (exam depth) · GS Paper: GS-II Grounded in: Indian Polity by M. Laxmikant, Ch. 38 (direct check of the local Sixth Revised Edition PDF). FACT: = from source book · ANALYSIS: = inference / case law · CURRENT: = current affairs. Companion: basic/Panchayati-Raj.md.

PART A - EVOLUTION □

FACT: Balwant Rai Mehta Committee (1957): recommended "democratic decentralisation" -> the 3-tier Panchayati Raj (Gram Panchayat-Panchayat Samiti-Zila Parishad). Rajasthan first to launch PR (2 Oct 1959, Nagaur), followed by Andhra Pradesh. ANALYSIS: Later committees: Ashok Mehta (1977) - 2-tier + political parties; G.V.K. Rao (1985); L.M. Singhvi (1986) - constitutional status for PRIs (the key idea behind the 73rd Amendment).

PART B - 73rd AMENDMENT ACT, 1992 □

FACT: Added Part IX ("The Panchayats", Art 243-243-O) + the Eleventh Schedule (29 functional items, Art 243-G). Gave constitutional status to PRIs, giving practical shape to Art 40 (DPSP). Came into force 24 April 1993. Provisions are compulsory (mandatory) or voluntary (optional for states).

Salient features (compulsory)

Feature	Detail
FACT: Gram Sabha	Village assembly of all registered voters - foundation of PR
FACT: 3-tier system	Village, intermediate, district - but a state < 20 lakh population may skip the intermediate tier
FACT: Election	All territorial seats at all 3 levels directly elected; chairpersons of intermediate & district levels indirectly ; village chairperson as state law decides; Art 243-C permits specified representation
FACT: Reservation	SC/ST in proportion to population; ≥ 1/3 seats for women (incl. SC/ST women) at all levels + chairperson offices
FACT: Duration	5-year term ; elections before expiry OR within 6 months of dissolution; a reconstituted panchayat serves only the remainder
FACT: Disqualification	Age 21 allowed (not the 25 of state legislature)
FACT: State Election Commission	Governor-appointed SEC conducts panchayat elections; removed only like an HC judge
FACT: State Finance Commission	Governor constitutes an SFC every 5 years to review PRI finances

Voluntary provisions ANALYSIS:

FACT: Endowing panchayats to function as institutions of self-government; devolving the 29 Eleventh-Schedule subjects; giving reservation to backward classes; giving financial powers, etc.

Exemptions □

FACT: Part IX does NOT apply to Nagaland, Meghalaya, Mizoram, the Fifth/Sixth Schedule areas, the hill areas of Manipur (district councils), and Darjeeling (Gorkha Hill Council).

PART C - PESA ACT, 1996 □

FACT: Provisions of the Panchayats (Extension to the Scheduled Areas) Act, 1996 - extends Part IX to the Fifth Schedule areas. Empowers the Gram Sabha with control over local resources, minor forest produce, land alienation, and consultation before land acquisition/mining - the cornerstone of tribal self-governance.

□ Social Audit (high-yield gap)

FACT: Grounded in M. Laxmikant Indian Polity + ANALYSIS: standard + CURRENT: verified. Added to close a UPSC gap.

- FACT: Laxmikant frames Gram Sabha as the participatory-democracy core of Panchayati Raj.
- CURRENT: Sec 17 of MGNREGA mandates Gram Sabha monitoring and regular social audits of works within the Gram Panchayat.
- ANALYSIS: Social audit means community verification of records, expenditure and outcomes - not merely departmental inspection.
- CURRENT: Meghalaya enacted the Meghalaya Community Participation and Public Services Social Audit Act, 2017, widely cited as the first state social-audit law.

Feature	Social audit significance
Forum	Gram Sabha / community platform
Evidence	Muster rolls, bills, vouchers, measurement books, beneficiary records
Outcome	Transparency, recovery/correction, accountability of implementing agencies

MEMORY: Trap: Social audit is participatory accountability by beneficiaries/citizens; it is not the CAG audit of accounts.

UPSC Traps

- WRONG: 73rd Amendment came into force in 1992 -> passed 1992, in force 24 April 1993.
- WRONG: Eleventh Schedule has 29 items for municipalities -> 29 for panchayats (Twelfth Schedule = 18 for municipalities).
- WRONG: All 3 tiers are compulsory for every state -> a state < 20 lakh may skip the intermediate tier.
- WRONG: Only village-level territorial seats are directly elected -> territorial seats at *all three levels are directly elected, but this does not make every chairperson/represented member directly elected.
- WRONG: Minimum candidate age is 25 -> 21 for panchayats.
- WRONG: Women's reservation is 1/3 and fixed -> "not less than 1/3"; many states have raised it to 50%.
- WRONG: PESA extends Part IX to Sixth Schedule areas -> Fifth Schedule areas.
- WRONG: The Election Commission of India conducts panchayat polls -> the State Election Commission.

CURRENT: CA hooks

- CURRENT: ANALYSIS: 50% women's reservation in PRIs adopted by ~21 states - grassroots women's empowerment (links to the Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam debate).
- CURRENT: ANALYSIS: 15th/16th Finance Commission grants to local bodies (tied/untied) & the demand for greater fiscal devolution ("3 Fs - funds, functions, functionaries").
- CURRENT: ANALYSIS: PESA implementation gaps & tribal Gram Sabha rights (land acquisition, mining, FRA linkage).

Mains angles

- "Panchayati Raj has achieved political decentralisation but not administrative & fiscal decentralisation."

Examine (the 3 Fs).

- Women's reservation in PRIs - has it led to genuine empowerment or "sarpanch-pati" proxy rule?
- PESA & tribal self-governance: promise vs ground reality.

- Reservation of seats for women in local self-government and patriarchy
- Local institutions from functions functionaries and funds to functionality

Answer-writing evidence bank

Claim	Named evidence	Qualification
political decentralisation secured	Articles 243B-E, K	administrative/fiscal power uneven
devolution remains optional	Articles 243G-H	State variation proves possibility
women transformed representation	Article 243D	proxy and capacity constraints

ARTICLE 243K

State Election Commission controls Panchayat rolls and elections.

ARTICLE 243O

delimitation/allotment barred from ordinary challenge; election petition is the route.

candidate age floor is 21 | ECI does not conduct Panchayat elections

| reservation creates access but proxy control can block substantive authority.

ASCII MASTER FLOW - PANEL 4/12: Article 243G, Eleventh Schedule and the three-F functionality test

ARTICLE 243G IS ENABLING

State legislature may endow Panchayats with self-government powers.
