SOURCE / DOCTRINE

- COMMON THERAPEUTIC CORE duḥkha → origin (trṣṇā/avidyā) → cessation (nirvāṇa) → eightfold path three marks: anitya
- anātman dependent origination supplies the middle way

ARGUMENT / MECHANISM

- neither eternal substance nor causeless annihilation later schools disagree about what exists and how it is known, not

IMPLICATION / VERDICT

- COMMON THERAPEUTIC CORE duḥkha → origin (trṣṇā/avidyā) → cessation (nirvāṇa) → eightfold path three marks: anitya
- anātman dependent origination supplies the middle way

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: Buddhist schools share dependent origination and no-self but disagree over external objects, consciousness and ultimate truth; comparison must therefore preserve both their common therapeutic framework and their distinct ontologies.

ARGUMENT / MECHANISM

- IGNORANCE conditions formations; craving and grasping renew becoming
- “When this is, that comes to be; with cessation of this, that ceases” reverse order: end avidyā/trṣṇā → break appropriation → end rebirth-duḥkha.

IMPLICATION / VERDICT

- avidyā → saṃskāra → vijñāna → nāma-rūpa → ṣaḍāyatana → sparśa
- vedanā → trṣṇā → upādāna → bhava → jāti → jarā-maraṇa

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: Recommended opening definition: pratītyasamutpāda (dependent origination) is the principle that phenomena arise and cease in dependence on conditions, rejecting both eternalism and causeless annihilationism.

- PERSON ANALYSIS → five skandhas rūpa

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: Nairātmyavāda (no-self doctrine) denies an eternal ātman (self) and explains the person as a dependently ordered continuum of five skandhas (aggregates), preserving conventional identity without a permanent substance.

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: The four-school debate moves from Vaibhāṣika (Abhidharma realist school) and Sautrāntika (Sūtra-based representationalist school) to Yogācāra (yoga-practice consciousness-centred school) and Mādhyamika (Middle Way emptiness school), progressively questioning what can count as ultimately real.

- CLOSE: Buddhism replaces substance with conditioned process
- its schools progressively debate whether external dharmas, cognition, or any intrinsic nature can be retained.

ANSWER-GRABBING LINE — WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM: The central realist criticism is that momentariness and no-self cannot explain recognition, memory and moral responsibility; the Buddhist reply relocates continuity from substance to causally connected santāna (continuum).

ADVANCED OBJECTION

- It diagnoses the structure of conditioned becoming here and now.
- This avoids eternalism because no unchanged self grounds the process, and avoids annihilationism because causal continuity remains.
- The doctrine supports different ontological conclusions.
- Mādhyamika argues that whatever depends on conditions lacks svabhāva and is therefore empty.

COMPARATIVE NUANCE

- Vaibhāṣika and Sautrāntika instead emphasise that causally functioning conditioned events are real.
- Their disagreement concerns ultimate status, not whether dependent arising occurs.
- The strongest challenge is regress: if every event is conditioned, what explains the chain as a whole?
- The Buddhist reply is therapeutic and structural rather than foundational—the task is to identify and cease the conditions
