

SOLVED PRACTICE WORKBOOK

Women and Women's Organisations - Solved Practice Workbook

UPSC complete learning session | Foundation to advanced | Concepts, evidence, practice and answer writing

Original deterministic study visual; labels are explanatory, not textual quotations.

Source order: repository knowledge -> official current linkage -> clearly marked analysis. No fabricated PYQs or statistics.

CONTENTS / WORKBOOK INDEX

Major learning parts and meaningful subtopics are listed in document order. Page numbers are generated from the final PDF layout; PDF bookmarks mirror the same hierarchy.

Women and Women's Organisations - Solved Practice Workbook 6

BASIC MCQS / REMEDIATION 6

Q1. Which statement correctly identifies Layered organisational history?	6
Q2. Which chronology card should be filed under Layered organisational history?	6
Q3. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Layered organisational history?	6
Q4. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Layered organisational history?	7
Q5. Which statement correctly identifies Women's Indian Association precedence?	7
Q6. Which chronology card should be filed under Women's Indian Association precedence?	7
Q7. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Women's Indian Association precedence?	8
Q8. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Women's Indian Association precedence?	8
Q9. Which statement correctly identifies All India Women's Conference, 1927?	8
Q10. Which chronology card should be filed under All India Women's Conference, 1927?	9
Q11. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of All India Women's Conference, 1927?	9
Q12. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about All India Women's Conference, 1927?	9
Q13. Which statement correctly identifies National Federation of Indian Women?	10
Q14. Which chronology card should be filed under National Federation of Indian Women?	10
Q15. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of National Federation of Indian Women?	10
Q16. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about National Federation of Indian Women?	11
Q17. Which statement correctly identifies Self Employed Women's Association?	11
Q18. Which chronology card should be filed under Self Employed Women's Association?	11
Q19. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Self Employed Women's Association?	12
Q20. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Self Employed Women's Association?	12
Q21. Which statement correctly identifies Self-help group federations?	12
Q22. Which chronology card should be filed under Self-help group federations?	13
Q23. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Self-help group federations?	13
Q24. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Self-help group federations?	13
Q25. Which statement correctly identifies Gender equality?	14
Q26. Which chronology card should be filed under Gender equality?	14
Q27. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gender equality?	14

Q28. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gender equality?	15
Q29. Which statement correctly identifies Gender equity?	15
Q30. Which chronology card should be filed under Gender equity?	15
Q31. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gender equity?	16
Q32. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gender equity?	16
Q33. Which statement correctly identifies Women's empowerment?	16
Q34. Which chronology card should be filed under Women's empowerment?	17
Q35. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Women's empowerment?	17
Q36. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Women's empowerment?	17
Q37. Which statement correctly identifies Interaction rather than a sequence?	18
Q38. Which chronology card should be filed under Interaction rather than a sequence?	18
Q39. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Interaction rather than a sequence?	18
Q40. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Interaction rather than a sequence?	19
Q41. Which statement correctly identifies Membership against substantive voice?	19
Q42. Which chronology card should be filed under Membership against substantive voice?	19
Q43. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Membership against substantive voice?	20
Q44. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Membership against substantive voice?	20
Q45. Which statement correctly identifies Time poverty and the care burden?	20
Q46. Which chronology card should be filed under Time poverty and the care burden?	21
Q47. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Time poverty and the care burden?	21
Q48. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Time poverty and the care burden?	21
Q49. Which statement correctly identifies Mobility, safety and contested space?	22
Q50. Which chronology card should be filed under Mobility, safety and contested space?	22
Q51. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Mobility, safety and contested space?	22
Q52. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Mobility, safety and contested space?	23
Q53. Which statement correctly identifies Dated access indicators?	23
Q54. Which chronology card should be filed under Dated access indicators?	23
Q55. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Dated access indicators?	24
Q56. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Dated access indicators?	24
Q57. Which statement correctly identifies Intersectionality critique?	25
Q58. Which chronology card should be filed under Intersectionality critique?	25
Q59. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Intersectionality critique?	25

Q60. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Intersectionality critique?	26
Q61. Which statement correctly identifies Equality without equity?	26
Q62. Which chronology card should be filed under Equality without equity?	27
Q63. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Equality without equity?	27
Q64. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Equality without equity?	27
Q65. Which statement correctly identifies Equity without empowerment?	28
Q66. Which chronology card should be filed under Equity without empowerment?	28
Q67. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Equity without empowerment?	28
Q68. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Equity without empowerment?	29
Q69. Which statement correctly identifies Full chain and compounded disadvantage?	29
Q70. Which chronology card should be filed under Full chain and compounded disadvantage?	30
Q71. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Full chain and compounded disadvantage?	30
Q72. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Full chain and compounded disadvantage?	30
Q73. Which statement correctly identifies Gig-economy boundary?	31
Q74. Which chronology card should be filed under Gig-economy boundary?	31
Q75. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gig-economy boundary?	32
Q76. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gig-economy boundary?	32
Q77. Which statement correctly identifies Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?	32
Q78. Which chronology card should be filed under Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?	33
Q79. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?	33
Q80. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?	34

PYQS AND ANSWER PRACTICE 34

VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT	34
OWNER PYQ LEDGER EXTRACTS	35
PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2018 GS-I Q18	37
PYQ DEMAND CARD 2 - 2019 GS-I Q19	39
PYQ DEMAND CARD 3 - 2021 GS-I Q10	40
PYQ DEMAND CARD 4 - 2023 GS-I Q9	42
PYQ DEMAND CARD 5 - 2024 GS-I Q8	43
ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS	45
ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS	47
ORIGINAL MAINS 3 - 15 MARKS	48

ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS 50

ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS 51

ORIGINAL MAINS 6 - 20 MARKS 53

Women and Women's Organisations - Solved Practice Workbook

BASIC MCQS / REMEDIATION

Q1. Which statement correctly identifies Layered organisational history?

A. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. D. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.

Answer: A. Explanation: Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q2. Which chronology card should be filed under Layered organisational history?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. C. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. D. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work.

Answer: B. Explanation: Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q3. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Layered organisational history?

A. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. B. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. C. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. D. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.

Answer: C. Explanation: Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q4. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Layered organisational history?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement.

Answer: D. Explanation: Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q5. Which statement correctly identifies Women's Indian Association precedence?

A. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. B. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. C. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. D. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q6. Which chronology card should be filed under Women's Indian Association precedence?

A. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. B. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. C. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. D. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q7. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Women's Indian Association precedence?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. C. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. D. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q8. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Women's Indian Association precedence?

A. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. B. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q9. Which statement correctly identifies All India Women's Conference, 1927?

A. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. B. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. C. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. D. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.

Answer: A. Explanation: The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q10. Which chronology card should be filed under All India Women's Conference, 1927?

A. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone.

Answer: B. Explanation: The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q11. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of All India Women's Conference, 1927?

A. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. B. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. C. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. D. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.

Answer: C. Explanation: The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q12. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about All India Women's Conference, 1927?

A. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. B. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work.

Answer: D. Explanation: The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q13. Which statement correctly identifies National Federation of Indian Women?

A. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. B. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. C. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. D. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.

Answer: A. Explanation: The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q14. Which chronology card should be filed under National Federation of Indian Women?

A. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. B. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here.

Answer: B. Explanation: The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q15. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of National Federation of Indian Women?

A. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. B. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. C. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. D. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.

Answer: C. Explanation: The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q16. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about National Federation of Indian Women?

A. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. B. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. C. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. D. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.

Answer: D. Explanation: The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q17. Which statement correctly identifies Self Employed Women's Association?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. C. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. D. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q18. Which chronology card should be filed under Self Employed Women's Association?

A. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. B. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. C. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. D. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q19. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Self Employed Women's Association?

A. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. B. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. C. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. D. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q20. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Self Employed Women's Association?

A. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. B. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. C. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. D. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q21. Which statement correctly identifies Self-help group federations?

A. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. B. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. C. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: A. Explanation: Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q22. Which chronology card should be filed under Self-help group federations?

A. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. B. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. C. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. D. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries.

Answer: B. Explanation: Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q23. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Self-help group federations?

A. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. B. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. C. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: C. Explanation: Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q24. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Self-help group federations?

A. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. B. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. C. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. D. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here.

Answer: D. Explanation: Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q25. Which statement correctly identifies Gender equality?

A. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. B. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. C. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: A. Explanation: Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q26. Which chronology card should be filed under Gender equality?

A. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. B. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. C. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: B. Explanation: Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q27. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gender equality?

A. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. B. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. C. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. D. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries.

Answer: C. Explanation: Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q28. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gender equality?

A. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. B. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. C. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. D. Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.

Answer: D. Explanation: Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q29. Which statement correctly identifies Gender equity?

A. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. B. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. C. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: A. Explanation: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q30. Which chronology card should be filed under Gender equity?

A. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. B. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. C. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: B. Explanation: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q31. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gender equity?

A. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. B. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. C. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. D. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.

Answer: C. Explanation: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q32. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gender equity?

A. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. B. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. C. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. D. Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege.

Answer: D. Explanation: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q33. Which statement correctly identifies Women's empowerment?

A. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. B. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. C. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. D. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries.

Answer: A. Explanation: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q34. Which chronology card should be filed under Women's empowerment?

A. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. B. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. C. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: B. Explanation: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q35. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Women's empowerment?

A. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. B. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. C. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: C. Explanation: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q36. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Women's empowerment?

A. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. B. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. C. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. D. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.

Answer: D. Explanation: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q37. Which statement correctly identifies Interaction rather than a sequence?

A. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. B. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. C. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: A. Explanation: Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q38. Which chronology card should be filed under Interaction rather than a sequence?

A. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. B. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. C. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: B. Explanation: Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q39. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Interaction rather than a sequence?

A. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. B. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. C. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. D. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement.

Answer: C. Explanation: Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q40. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Interaction rather than a sequence?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries.

Answer: D. Explanation: Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q41. Which statement correctly identifies Membership against substantive voice?

A. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. B. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. C. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: A. Explanation: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q42. Which chronology card should be filed under Membership against substantive voice?

A. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. B. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly.

Answer: B. Explanation: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q43. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Membership against substantive voice?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. C. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. D. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions.

Answer: C. Explanation: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q44. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Membership against substantive voice?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.

Answer: D. Explanation: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q45. Which statement correctly identifies Time poverty and the care burden?

A. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. B. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions.

Answer: A. Explanation: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q46. Which chronology card should be filed under Time poverty and the care burden?

A. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. B. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.

Answer: B. Explanation: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q47. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Time poverty and the care burden?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. D. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement.

Answer: C. Explanation: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q48. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Time poverty and the care burden?

A. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. B. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. C. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. D. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Answer: D. Explanation: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q49. Which statement correctly identifies Mobility, safety and contested space?

A. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. B. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. C. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. D. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.

Answer: A. Explanation: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q50. Which chronology card should be filed under Mobility, safety and contested space?

A. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. B. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. C. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. D. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer.

Answer: B. Explanation: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q51. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Mobility, safety and contested space?

A. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. B. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. C. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. D. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.

Answer: C. Explanation: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q52. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Mobility, safety and contested space?

A. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. B. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. C. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. D. Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly.

Answer: D. Explanation: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q53. Which statement correctly identifies Dated access indicators?

A. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.

Answer: A. Explanation: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q54. Which chronology card should be filed under Dated access indicators?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. C. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. D. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage.

Answer: B. Explanation: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q55. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Dated access indicators?

A. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. B. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. C. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. D. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer.

Answer: C. Explanation: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q56. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Dated access indicators?

A. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. B. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. C. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. D. The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions.

Answer: D. Explanation: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q57. Which statement correctly identifies Intersectionality critique?

A. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. D. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage.

Answer: A. Explanation: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q58. Which chronology card should be filed under Intersectionality critique?

A. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. B. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. C. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: B. Explanation: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q59. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Intersectionality critique?

A. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. B. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. C. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: C. Explanation: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q60. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Intersectionality critique?

A. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. B. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. C. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. D. The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement.

Answer: D. Explanation: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q61. Which statement correctly identifies Equality without equity?

A. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: A. Explanation: A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q62. Which chronology card should be filed under Equality without equity?

A. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. B. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. C. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: B. Explanation: A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q63. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Equality without equity?

A. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. B. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. C. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. D. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024.

Answer: C. Explanation: A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q64. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Equality without equity?

A. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. B. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. C. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. D. A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.

Answer: D. Explanation: A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q65. Which statement correctly identifies Equity without empowerment?

A. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. B. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. C. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. D. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage.

Answer: A. Explanation: A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q66. Which chronology card should be filed under Equity without empowerment?

A. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. B. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. C. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. D. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024.

Answer: B. Explanation: A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q67. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Equity without empowerment?

A. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. B. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. C. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. D. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024.

Answer: C. Explanation: A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q68. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Equity without empowerment?

A. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. B. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. C. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. D. A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer.

Answer: D. Explanation: A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q69. Which statement correctly identifies Full chain and compounded disadvantage?

A. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. B. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. C. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: A. Explanation: A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q70. Which chronology card should be filed under Full chain and compounded disadvantage?

A. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. B. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. C. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. D. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement.

Answer: B. Explanation: A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q71. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Full chain and compounded disadvantage?

A. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. D. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement.

Answer: C. Explanation: A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q72. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Full chain and compounded disadvantage?

A. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. B. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. C. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. D. A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage.

Answer: D. Explanation: A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q73. Which statement correctly identifies Gig-economy boundary?

A. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. B. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. C. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. D. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.

Answer: A. Explanation: Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q74. Which chronology card should be filed under Gig-economy boundary?

A. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. B. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. C. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. D. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement.

Answer: B. Explanation: Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q75. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Gig-economy boundary?

A. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. D. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.

Answer: C. Explanation: Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q76. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Gig-economy boundary?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. D. Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.

Answer: D. Explanation: Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q77. Which statement correctly identifies Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?

A. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. B. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. C. Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. D. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.

Answer: A. Explanation: Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q78. Which chronology card should be filed under Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?

A. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. B. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. C. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. D. The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.

Answer: B. Explanation: Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q79. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. C. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. D. The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work.

Answer: C. Explanation: Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

Q80. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Evidence restraint and verified direct Mains demands?

A. The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. B. The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. C. Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. D. Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024.

Answer: D. Explanation: Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. The remaining options belong to different chronology, actor or analytical categories.

PYQS AND ANSWER PRACTICE

VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT

Five direct General Studies Paper-I Mains demands are carried by this owner and each is recorded with its exact routing status. The 2018 Q18 demand on the women's movement and women of lower social strata, the 2019 Q19 demand on continued challenges for women against time and space, the 2021 Q10 demand on the gig economy and women's empowerment and the 2023 Q9 demand on rising suicide among young women are routed in the audited 2018-2023 Mains ledger to the Advanced owner, while the Core owner's own answer-architecture table records that Core routing supersedes those pointers, so all four are answered here from the Basic spine. The locally held official question papers for 2018, 2019, 2021 and 2023 are scanned images from which reliable text cannot be extracted, so the audited ledger's neutral demand rendering is used for those four years and no verbatim wording is claimed. The 2024 Q8 demand on gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment is routed in the audited 2024-2025 ledger to this Basic owner and its wording was confirmed in the locally held official 2024 General Studies Paper-I, including a printed irregularity in the second sentence that is reproduced rather than silently corrected. No marking scheme, official key or model answer of the Union Public Service Commission is held locally, and none is reproduced or inferred.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: The answer must resolve the sociological demand in "VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT".

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Define the central concept and separate it from the nearest social or legal category. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

2. Claim and named evidence: Trace the historical and institutional setting instead of assuming a timeless practice. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: Explain the norm, incentive, network, power or agency mechanism producing the outcome. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
4. Claim and named evidence: Use one named Indian community, movement, region, institution or source-dated dataset. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
5. Claim and named evidence: Qualify the pattern through intersectionality, regional variation, causation and implementation limits. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: The answer must resolve the sociological demand in “VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT”.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For “VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT”, replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

OWNER PYQ LEDGER EXTRACTS

5. Indian applications and PYQ mapping

- FACT: 2024 GS-I PYQ (10 marks, verbatim): "Distinguish between gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment. What is it important to take gender concerns into account in programme design and implementation?" The expected answer maps equality (same rules), equity (differentiated treatment to offset structural disadvantage such as time poverty or mobility constraints) and empowerment (the resulting expansion of agency), then argues that programme design must account for differential starting conditions to convert formal equality into substantive capability - a full treatment of this PYQ, including its GS-II legal-instrument mapping, is in Social-Justice/basic/05_Women-and-Gender-Justice.md; this file's contribution is the organisational-history lens on how women's own organisations have historically pushed for exactly this shift from equality to equity to empowerment.

- ANALYSIS: An SEWA member gaining access to credit and collective bargaining through her cooperative membership illustrates equity-instrument design translating into empowerment outcome.

9. PYQ application

- FACT: 2024 GS-I (10 marks): structure as a three-term definitional distinction followed by the programme-design argument; use the organisational-history lens (AIWC to SHG federations) as illustrative evidence of how women's own mobilisation has pushed policy from equality-only toward equity-and-empowerment design.

Recent PYQ Integration (2024-2025)

Status: 2024-2025 question-level PYQ demand is integrated into this owner. Provenance: Audited local official-paper routing ledgers: _PYQ-ROUTING-MAINS-GS1-GS2-ESSAY-2024-2025.md.

- Years represented: 2024
- Paper(s): GS-I
- Routed question demands: 1

Year	Paper	Q	PYQ demand (neutral rendering)	Directive / format	Source status	Owner requirement
2024	GS-I	8	Gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment; gender in programme design	Distinguish · 10 marks · 150 words	Routed to owning topic	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.

What this owner must now support

- Gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment; gender in programme design

This block integrates the 2024-2025 examinable demand and paper metadata. It is kept separate from the 2018-2023 block and does not convert an unkeyed/answer-free objective question into a solved answer.

10. PYQ-based analytical application

- FACT: 2024 GS-I (10 marks, verbatim): "Distinguish between gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment. Why is it important to take gender concerns into account in programme design and implementation?" Analytical route: (a) define the three terms with the causal-chain logic (Section 3); (b) use the organisational-layering history (AIWC to SHG federations) as evidence of how the trichotomy has actually operated in practice; (c) apply the membership-versus-voice distinction to argue that programme design must measure uptake and agency, not just coverage; (d) note the intersectionality limitation - design must account for caste/class variation in women's specific constraints, not treat "women" as a uniform category.

Historical PYQ Integration (2018-2023)

Status: Question-level PYQ demand is integrated into this owner. Provenance: Audited local official-paper routing ledgers: _PYQ-ROUTING-MAINS-GS1-GS2-ESSAY-2018-2023.md.

- Years represented: 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023
- Paper(s): GS-I
- Routed question demands: 4

Year	Paper	Q	PYQ demand (neutral rendering)	Directive / format	Source status	Owner requirement
2018	GS-I	18	Women's movement and women of lower social strata	Substantiate your view · 15 marks · 250 words	Routed to owning topic	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.
2019	GS-I	19	Continued challenges for women against time and space	What are the challenges · 15 marks · 250 words	Routed to owning topic	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.
2021	GS-I	10	Gig economy in the process of empowerment of women	Examine · 10 marks · 150 words	Routed to owning topic	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.
2023	GS-I	9	Rising suicide among young women in Indian society	Explain why · 10 marks · 150 words	Routed to owning topic	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.

What this owner must now support

- Women's movement and women of lower social strata
- Continued challenges for women against time and space
- Gig economy in the process of empowerment of women
- Rising suicide among young women in Indian society

The table integrates the examinable demand and paper metadata. It does not turn an unkeyed objective question into a solved answer, and it does not claim that lexical presence alone proves full conceptual sufficiency.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2018 GS-I Q18

Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: the women's movement and women of lower social strata. Substantiate your view, 15 marks, 250 words.

Status: Routed in the audited 2018-2023 Mains ledger to the Advanced owner, with the Core owner recording that Core routing supersedes. The locally held official 2018 paper is a scanned image without reliable text extraction, so the ledger rendering is used and no verbatim wording is claimed.

Model solution: Substantiate means take a position and prove it, so state the view first: the Indian women's movement produced real gains but its successive organisational forms reached women of the lower social strata unevenly, and the evidence for that is organisational rather than rhetorical. Build the evidence in order. Social-reform-era advocacy was largely elite-led and spoke about women rather than organising them. The Women's Indian Association and the All India Women's Conference founded in 1927 created sustained national platforms for education, franchise and legal reform, which mattered enormously but centred concerns that were legible to educated, largely urban members; the precedence point also matters here because the 1927 body followed the earlier association and is not the movement's origin. The National Federation of Indian Women extended the agenda to wages and anti-dowry mobilisation, moving it closer to working women. The Self Employed Women's Association, registered in Gujarat as a trade union of self-employed women workers, shifted the centre of gravity to informal-sector economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining, which is the point at which lower-strata women became the organisational subject rather than the beneficiary. Self-help group federations then scaled savings-and-credit organising to a mass grassroots level. Now prove the unevenness directly: Dalit and tribal women's organisations emerged separately precisely because caste-based violence, wage discrimination and land questions were not centred by mainstream bodies, and that emergence is a corrective to reach rather than a fragmentation of the movement. Add the measurement caution that membership counts are input measures and cannot stand as proof of voice. Conclude with a qualified verdict: the movement's legal-rights achievements were broad, its economic-organisational achievements were narrower and later, and its record with lower-strata women improves exactly where organisation gave them assets, bargaining power and their own platform.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2018 GS-I Q18", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Substantiate means take a position and prove it, so state the view first: the Indian women's movement produced real gains but its successive organisational forms reached women of the lower social strata unevenly, and the evidence for that is organisational rather than rhetorical. Build the evidence in order.

Social-reform-era advocacy was largely elite-led and spoke about women rather than organising them. The Women's Indian Association and the All India Women's Conference founded in 1927 created sustained national platforms for education, franchise and legal reform, which mattered enormously but centred concerns that were legible to educated, largely urban members; the precedence point also matters here because the 1927 body followed the earlier association and is not the movement's origin. The National Federation of Indian Women extended the agenda to wages and anti-dowry mobilisation, moving it closer to working women. The Self Employed Women's Association, registered in Gujarat as a trade union of self-employed women workers, shifted the centre of gravity to informal-sector economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining, which is the point at which lower-strata women became the organisational subject rather than the beneficiary. Self-help group federations then scaled savings-and-credit organising to a mass grassroots level. Now prove the unevenness directly: Dalit and tribal women's organisations emerged separately precisely because caste-based violence, wage discrimination and land questions were not centred by mainstream bodies, and that emergence is a corrective to reach rather than a fragmentation of the movement. Add the measurement caution that membership counts are input measures and cannot stand as proof of voice. Conclude with a qualified verdict: the movement's legal-rights achievements were broad, its economic-organisational achievements were narrower and later, and its record with lower-strata women improves exactly where organisation gave them assets, bargaining power and their own platform.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: the women's movement and women of lower social strata. Substantiate your view, 15 marks, 250 words. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication.

Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Substantiate means take a position and prove it, so state the view first: the Indian women's movement produced real gains but its successive organisational forms reached women of the lower social strata unevenly, and the evidence for that is organisational rather than rhetorical. Build the evidence in order.

Social-reform-era advocacy was largely elite-led and spoke about women rather than organising them. The Women's Indian Association and the All India Women's Conference founded in 1927 created sustained national platforms for education, franchise and legal reform, which mattered enormously but centred concerns that were legible to educated, largely urban members; the precedence point also matters here because the 1927 body followed the earlier association and is not the movement's origin. The National Federation of Indian Women extended the agenda to wages and anti-dowry mobilisation, moving it closer to working women. The Self Employed Women's Association, registered in Gujarat as a trade union of self-employed women workers, shifted the centre of gravity to informal-sector economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining, which is the point at which lower-strata women became the organisational subject rather than the beneficiary. Self-help group federations then scaled savings-and-credit organising to a mass grassroots level. Now prove the unevenness directly: Dalit and tribal women's organisations emerged separately precisely because caste-based violence, wage discrimination and land questions were not centred by mainstream bodies, and that emergence is a corrective to reach rather than a fragmentation of the movement. Add the measurement caution that membership counts are input measures and cannot stand as proof of voice. Conclude with a qualified verdict: the movement's legal-rights achievements were broad, its economic-organisational achievements were narrower and later, and its record with lower-strata women improves exactly where organisation gave them assets, bargaining power and their own platform.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2018 GS-I Q18", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 2 - 2019 GS-I Q19

Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: continued challenges for women against time and space. What are the challenges, 15 marks, 250 words.

Status: Routed in the audited 2018-2023 Mains ledger to the Advanced owner, with the Core owner recording that Core routing supersedes. The locally held official 2019 paper is a scanned image without reliable text extraction, so the ledger rendering is used and no verbatim wording is claimed.

Model solution: Read the demand structurally rather than thematically: time and space are two distinct constraint systems and the answer must give each its own evidence instead of letting one stand for the other. Take time first. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a continuing claim on women's hours that compresses schooling continuity, paid-work participation, skill acquisition, travel range and the ability to attend an organisation's meetings at all, which means a programme designed on the assumption of equally available time excludes the very women it names; the qualification is that this is a structural time constraint and no time-use figure is asserted here beyond what the owner carries. Take space second. Women's presence in public space, workplace space and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so distance, route, timing and the reception a woman meets on arrival all convert a nominal opportunity into an unusable one. Bring the dated evidence with its status attached: the National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 with a bank or savings account they themselves used and 33.3 per cent who had ever used the internet, and after the release of round six on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators of reach rather than measures of control. Add the intersectional layer, because caste, class, tribe and location change both constraints simultaneously and a Dalit agricultural labourer's time and space are not an urban middle-class woman's. Add the measurement point that membership or coverage counts are inputs, not agency. Conclude that the challenge is not a shortage of rights but the conversion of rights into usable time and reachable space, and that programme design must therefore be tested against care burden, travel, safety and digital access rather than against eligibility alone.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "PYQ DEMAND CARD 2 - 2019 GS-I Q19", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Read the demand structurally rather than thematically: time and space are two distinct constraint systems and the answer must give each its own evidence instead of letting one stand for the other. Take time first. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a continuing claim on women's hours that compresses schooling continuity, paid-work participation, skill acquisition, travel range and the ability to attend an organisation's meetings at all, which means a programme designed on the assumption of equally available time excludes the very women it names; the qualification is that this is a structural time constraint and no time-use figure is asserted here beyond what the owner carries. Take space second. Women's presence in public space, workplace space and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so distance, route, timing and the reception a woman meets on arrival all convert a nominal opportunity into an unusable one. Bring the dated evidence with its status attached: the National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 with a bank or savings account they themselves used and 33.3 per cent who had ever used the internet, and after the release of round six on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators of reach rather than measures of control. Add the intersectional layer, because caste, class, tribe and location change both constraints simultaneously and a Dalit agricultural labourer's time and space are not an urban middle-class woman's. Add the measurement point that membership or coverage counts are inputs, not agency. Conclude that the challenge is not a shortage of rights but the conversion of rights into usable time and reachable space, and that programme design must therefore be tested against care burden, travel, safety and digital access rather than against eligibility alone.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: continued challenges for women against time and space. What are the challenges, 15 marks, 250 words. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication.

Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Read the demand structurally rather than thematically: time and space are two distinct constraint systems and the answer must give each its own evidence instead of letting one stand for the other. Take time first. Unpaid care and domestic work impose a continuing claim on women's hours that compresses schooling continuity, paid-work participation, skill acquisition, travel range and the ability to attend an organisation's meetings at all, which means a programme designed on the assumption of equally available time excludes the very women it names; the qualification is that this is a structural time constraint and no time-use figure is asserted here beyond what the owner carries. Take space second. Women's presence in public space, workplace space and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so distance, route, timing and the reception a woman meets on arrival all convert a nominal opportunity into an unusable one. Bring the dated evidence with its status attached: the National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 with a bank or savings account they themselves used and 33.3 per cent who had ever used the internet, and after the release of round six on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators of reach rather than measures of control. Add the intersectional layer, because caste, class, tribe and location change both constraints simultaneously and a Dalit agricultural labourer's time and space are not an urban middle-class woman's. Add the measurement point that membership or coverage counts are inputs, not agency. Conclude that the challenge is not a shortage of rights but the conversion of rights into usable time and reachable space, and that programme design must therefore be tested against care burden, travel, safety and digital access rather than against eligibility alone.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "PYQ DEMAND CARD 2 - 2019 GS-I Q19", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 3 - 2021 GS-I Q10

Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: the gig economy in the process of empowerment of women. Examine, 10 marks, 150 words.

Status: Routed in the audited 2018-2023 Mains ledger to the Advanced owner, with the Core owner recording that Core routing supersedes. The locally held official 2021 paper is a scanned image without reliable text extraction, so the ledger rendering is used and no verbatim wording is claimed.

Model solution: Examine requires both sides tested against a stated criterion, so name the criterion first: empowerment means expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, which is why participation in a market is not by itself the answer. State the affirmative case. Platform and gig work lower entry barriers, allow work to be fitted around an unequal care burden, can supply independent earnings without a gatekeeping employer relationship, and give some women a first documented income stream; that combination touches equity, because flexible entry partially offsets the time constraint that ordinarily excludes them. State the negative case with equal precision. Earnings are volatile, task allocation and rating systems place control in an algorithm rather than in a negotiable relationship, safety exposure rises with travel and customer contact, and social protection is thin, so the same flexibility that widens entry can also transfer risk to the worker. Add the boundary that this owner respects: the legal status of platform workers and their social-security architecture belong to Social Justice, so no benefit delivery, code status or coverage claim is asserted here. Conclude with a conditional verdict rather than a position: gig work advances empowerment where earnings, safety and collective voice improve together, and it merely relocates precarity where participation rises while control and protection do not, which is why the collective-bargaining model of organised informal-sector women workers remains the relevant comparator.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on “PYQ DEMAND CARD 3 - 2021 GS-I Q10”, all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Examine requires both sides tested against a stated criterion, so name the criterion first: empowerment means expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, which is why participation in a market is not by itself the answer. State the affirmative case. Platform and gig work lower entry barriers, allow work to be fitted around an unequal care burden, can supply independent earnings without a gatekeeping employer relationship, and give some women a first documented income stream; that combination touches equity, because flexible entry partially offsets the time constraint that ordinarily excludes them. State the negative case with equal precision. Earnings are volatile, task allocation and rating systems place control in an algorithm rather than in a negotiable relationship, safety exposure rises with travel and customer contact, and social protection is thin, so the same flexibility that widens entry can also transfer risk to the worker. Add the boundary that this owner respects: the legal status of platform workers and their social-security architecture belong to Social Justice, so no benefit delivery, code status or coverage claim is asserted here. Conclude with a conditional verdict rather than a position: gig work advances empowerment where earnings, safety and collective voice improve together, and it merely relocates precarity where participation rises while control and protection do not, which is why the collective-bargaining model of organised informal-sector women workers remains the relevant comparator.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: the gig economy in the process of empowerment of women. Examine, 10 marks, 150 words. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication.

Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Examine requires both sides tested against a stated criterion, so name the criterion first: empowerment means expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, which is why participation in a market is not by itself the answer. State the affirmative case. Platform and gig work lower entry barriers, allow work to be fitted around an unequal care burden, can supply independent earnings without a gatekeeping employer relationship, and give some women a first documented income stream; that combination touches equity, because flexible entry partially offsets the time constraint that ordinarily excludes them. State the negative case with equal precision. Earnings are volatile, task allocation and rating systems place control in an algorithm rather than in a negotiable relationship, safety exposure rises with travel and customer contact, and social protection is thin, so the same flexibility that widens entry can also transfer risk to the worker. Add the boundary that this owner respects: the legal status of platform workers and their social-security architecture belong to Social Justice, so no benefit delivery, code status or coverage claim is asserted here. Conclude with a conditional verdict rather than a position: gig work advances empowerment where earnings, safety and collective voice improve together, and it merely relocates precarity where participation rises while control and protection do not, which is why the collective-bargaining model of organised informal-sector women workers remains the relevant comparator.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For “PYQ DEMAND CARD 3 - 2021 GS-I Q10”, replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 4 - 2023 GS-I Q9

Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: rising suicide among young women in Indian society. Explain why, 10 marks, 150 words.

Status: Routed in the audited 2018-2023 Mains ledger to the Advanced owner, with the Core owner recording that Core routing supersedes. The locally held official 2023 paper is a scanned image without reliable text extraction, so the ledger rendering is used and no verbatim wording is claimed. No self-harm rate, trend value or disaggregated figure is asserted anywhere in this package.

Model solution: Open by fixing the evidentiary rules, because this demand punishes speculation more than any other in the owner: a reported category records an outcome and cannot by itself establish a cause, so the answer analyses candidate pathways and refuses monocausal attribution. Present the pathways as social stressors rather than explanations. Early or unwanted marriage decisions and constrained autonomy over education and work concentrate life-defining choices in a short period and in other people's hands. Unpaid care and domestic obligation compress time, mobility and independent income, which narrows exit options in a distressing household situation. Harassment and safety exposure in public, workplace and digital space add a continuous stressor that is spatial rather than episodic. Caste, class and location intersect with all of these, so aggregated reporting can conceal which group is actually affected. Economic precarity and dependence reduce the capacity to leave, seek help or absorb a shock. State the reporting caution explicitly: aggregation, definitional and registration practices shape reported categories, so a trend claim requires a current, disaggregated and official source that this package does not hold. Close with the named prevention frame rather than a diagnosis: the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022 organises response around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, which supplies a legitimate policy conclusion built on support access, mental-health service availability and non-stigmatising discussion instead of on an asserted social cause.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on “PYQ DEMAND CARD 4 - 2023 GS-I Q9”, all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Open by fixing the evidentiary rules, because this demand punishes speculation more than any other in the owner: a reported category records an outcome and cannot by itself establish a cause, so the answer analyses candidate pathways and refuses monocausal attribution. Present the pathways as social stressors rather than explanations. Early or unwanted marriage decisions and constrained autonomy over education and work concentrate life-defining choices in a short period and in other people's hands. Unpaid care and domestic obligation compress time, mobility and independent income, which narrows exit options in a distressing household situation. Harassment and safety exposure in public, workplace and digital space add a continuous stressor that is spatial rather than episodic. Caste, class and location intersect with all of these, so aggregated reporting can conceal which group is actually affected. Economic precarity and dependence reduce the capacity to leave, seek help or absorb a shock. State the reporting caution explicitly: aggregation, definitional and registration practices shape reported categories, so a trend claim requires a current, disaggregated and official source that this package does not hold. Close with the named prevention frame rather than a diagnosis: the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022 organises response around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, which supplies a legitimate policy conclusion built on support access, mental-health service availability and non-stigmatising discussion instead of on an asserted social cause.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Demand: Audited ledger demand rendering: rising suicide among young women in Indian society. Explain why, 10 marks, 150 words. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication.

Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Open by fixing the evidentiary rules, because this demand punishes speculation more than any other in the owner: a reported category records an outcome and cannot by itself establish a cause, so the answer analyses candidate pathways and refuses monocausal attribution. Present the pathways as social stressors rather than explanations. Early or unwanted marriage decisions and constrained autonomy over education and work concentrate life-defining choices in a short period and in other people's hands. Unpaid care and domestic obligation compress time, mobility and independent income, which narrows exit options in a distressing household situation. Harassment and safety exposure in public, workplace and digital space add a continuous stressor that is spatial rather than episodic. Caste, class and location intersect with all of these, so aggregated reporting can conceal which group is actually affected. Economic precarity and dependence reduce the capacity to leave, seek help or absorb a shock. State the reporting caution explicitly: aggregation, definitional and registration practices shape reported categories, so a trend claim requires a current, disaggregated and official source that this package does not hold. Close with the named prevention frame rather than a diagnosis: the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022 organises response around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, which supplies a legitimate policy conclusion built on support access, mental-health service availability and non-stigmatising discussion instead of on an asserted social cause.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "PYQ DEMAND CARD 4 - 2023 GS-I Q9", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 5 - 2024 GS-I Q8

Demand: Distinguish between gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment. What is it important to take gender concerns into account in programme design and implementation? (Answer in 150 words) 10 marks. The second sentence is reproduced exactly as printed in the official paper, including its printed irregularity.

Status: Wording confirmed in the locally held official 2024 General Studies Paper-I and routed in the audited 2024-2025 Mains ledger to this Basic owner.

Model solution: Give the three definitions first, in one line each, because the directive is distinguish and a blurred opening loses the marks the question is designed to test. Gender equality is equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in outcomes. Gender equity is context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility or childcare support and collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a privilege. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, established by exercised choice and recognised authority rather than by a legal right or a coverage figure. Now show the relation, which is the analytical half: the three interact rather than forming a mechanical ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached. Answer the design question with mechanisms, not sentiment. Programme design must map the unequal starting conditions that equal rules ignore, namely the unpaid care burden that compresses available time, mobility and safety constraints that make a nominally open service unreachable, asset and account control that determines whether a transfer is usable, and caste, class and location that differentiate all three. Prove it with the owner's own boundary cases: full legal rights without income or mobility support produce equality without equity, and credit received while loan use is controlled by another produces equity without empowerment. Add the measurement rule that implementation must track uptake and decision-making rather than enrolment, and cite the dated access indicators of the National Family Health Survey round five, 78.6 per cent account use and 33.3 per cent ever internet use, only as reach rather than control. Conclude that gender concerns enter design because identical rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they were written to close.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "PYQ DEMAND CARD 5 - 2024 GS-I Q8", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Give the three definitions first, in one line each, because the directive is distinguish and a blurred opening loses the marks the question is designed to test. Gender equality is equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in outcomes. Gender equity is context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility or childcare support and collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a privilege. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, established by exercised choice and recognised authority rather than by a legal right or a coverage figure. Now show the relation, which is the analytical half: the three interact rather than forming a mechanical ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached. Answer the design question with mechanisms, not sentiment. Programme design must map the unequal starting conditions that equal rules ignore, namely the unpaid care burden that compresses available time, mobility and safety constraints that make a nominally open service unreachable, asset and account control that determines whether a transfer is usable, and caste, class and location that differentiate all three. Prove it with the owner's own boundary cases: full legal rights without income or mobility support produce equality without equity, and credit received while loan use is controlled by another produces equity without empowerment. Add the measurement rule that implementation must track uptake and decision-making rather than enrolment, and cite the dated access indicators of the National Family Health Survey round five, 78.6 per cent account use and 33.3 per cent ever internet use, only as reach rather than control. Conclude that gender concerns enter design because identical rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they were written to close.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Status: Wording confirmed in the locally held official 2024 General Studies Paper-I and routed in the audited 2024-2025 Mains ledger to this Basic owner. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication.

Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Give the three definitions first, in one line each, because the directive is distinguish and a blurred opening loses the marks the question is designed to test. Gender equality is equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in outcomes. Gender equity is context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility or childcare support and collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a privilege. Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, established by exercised choice and recognised authority rather than by a legal right or a coverage figure. Now show the relation, which is the analytical half: the three interact rather than forming a mechanical ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached. Answer the design question with mechanisms, not sentiment. Programme design must map the unequal starting conditions that equal rules ignore, namely the unpaid care burden that compresses available time, mobility and safety constraints that make a nominally open service unreachable, asset and account control that determines whether a transfer is usable, and caste, class and location that differentiate all three. Prove it with the owner's own boundary cases: full legal rights without income or mobility support produce equality without equity, and credit received while loan use is controlled by another produces equity without empowerment. Add the measurement rule that implementation must track uptake and decision-making rather than enrolment, and cite the dated access indicators of the National Family Health Survey round five, 78.6 per cent account use and 33.3 per cent ever internet use, only as reach rather than control. Conclude that gender concerns enter design because identical rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they were written to close.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "PYQ DEMAND CARD 5 - 2024 GS-I Q8", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS

Question: Distinguish gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment, and explain why gender concerns must enter programme design. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: The three terms name a rights baseline, a constraint-removing instrument and an agency outcome, and programme design must map unequal starting conditions because equal rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they claim to close.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured.
- Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege.
- Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.
- Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries.
- Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

Qualified conclusion: The three terms name a rights baseline, a constraint-removing instrument and an agency outcome, and programme design must map unequal starting conditions because equal rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they claim to close.

Demand decoding: The directive explain requires a direct position on "Distinguish gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment, and explain why gender...", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: The three terms name a rights baseline, a constraint-removing instrument and an agency outcome, and programme design must map unequal starting conditions because equal rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they claim to close.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Gender equality means equal rights, status and opportunity regardless of gender, covering formal equality before the law and the pursuit of substantive equality in lived outcomes, and it is the rights baseline against which the other two terms are measured. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
4. Claim and named evidence: Equality, equity and empowerment interact rather than forming a mechanical one-way ladder, because coverage without uptake and uptake without follow-through support both stall the chain before agency is reached, which is exactly the testing point the trichotomy demand carries. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
5. Claim and named evidence: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: The three terms name a rights baseline, a constraint-removing instrument and an agency outcome, and programme design must map unequal starting conditions because equal rules applied to unequal time, mobility and assets reproduce the gap they claim to close.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 10-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise three points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "Distinguish gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment, and explain why gender...", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS

Question: Examine whether the gig economy advances the empowerment of women. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Platform work can widen entry and flexibility while carrying volatility, algorithmic control and thin protection, so it advances empowerment only where earnings, safety and voice improve together rather than wherever participation rises.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here.
- Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege.
- Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme.
- Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.

Qualified conclusion: Platform work can widen entry and flexibility while carrying volatility, algorithmic control and thin protection, so it advances empowerment only where earnings, safety and voice improve together rather than wherever participation rises.

Demand decoding: The directive examine requires a direct position on "Examine whether the gig economy advances the empowerment of women. Answer in about 150 words.", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Platform work can widen entry and flexibility while carrying volatility, algorithmic control and thin protection, so it advances empowerment only where earnings, safety and voice improve together rather than wherever participation rises.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Platform and gig work can widen entry and offer flexible hours while simultaneously carrying income volatility, algorithmic control and weak social protection, so it is neither automatic liberation nor automatic exploitation, and the legal status and social-security architecture of platform workers is owned by Social Justice and is not claimed here. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: Gender equity means context-responsive measures that address structural disadvantage and unequal starting conditions, such as credit access, mobility support, childcare or collective bargaining, and it is a means toward fair substantive equality rather than a synonym for privilege. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: Women's empowerment is the process and outcome of expanded agency, capability, resources and voice, so it is established by evidence of exercised choice and recognised authority and never by the existence of a legal right or the coverage of a programme. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

4. Claim and named evidence: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.

Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Platform work can widen entry and flexibility while carrying volatility, algorithmic control and thin protection, so it advances empowerment only where earnings, safety and voice improve together rather than wherever participation rises.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 10-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise three points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "Examine whether the gig economy advances the empowerment of women. Answer in about 150 words.", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 3 - 15 MARKS

Question: Substantiate the view that the Indian women's movement has not served women of the lower social strata equally. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The movement's successive organisational forms each carried a distinct mechanism and a distinct reach, and the emergence of Dalit and tribal women's organisations is direct evidence that mainstream bodies did not centre caste-linked constraints.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement.
- The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries.
- The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work.
- The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model.
- The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone.
- The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement.

Qualified conclusion: The movement's successive organisational forms each carried a distinct mechanism and a distinct reach, and the emergence of Dalit and tribal women's organisations is direct evidence that mainstream bodies did not centre caste-linked constraints.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "Substantiate the view that the Indian women's movement has not served women of the lower...", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: The movement's successive organisational forms each carried a distinct mechanism and a distinct reach, and the emergence of Dalit and tribal women's organisations is direct evidence that mainstream bodies did not centre caste-linked constraints.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Women's organising in India runs through social reform, early national bodies, post-Independence rights mobilisation, informal-sector labour organising and savings-and-credit federations, and these streams overlap and coexist rather than replacing one another in a single linear movement. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: The Women's Indian Association preceded the All India Women's Conference, which is why the later body may be called an influential pan-Indian organisation but never the first women's organisation in India, and this precedence rule is one of the sharpest close-option distinctions the owner carries. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: The All India Women's Conference was founded in 1927, focused initially on women's education and later extended into legal and social reform advocacy, giving the movement a sustained national platform for franchise and law-reform work. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
4. Claim and named evidence: The National Federation of Indian Women is a post-Independence organisation associated with the broader left movement that mobilised around legal rights, wages and anti-dowry campaigns, which places it in the rights-and-wage organisational model rather than the economic-participation model. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
5. Claim and named evidence: The Self Employed Women's Association, founded in Gujarat, is registered as a trade union of self-employed women workers and functions with cooperative institutions, organising informal-sector women around economic rights, credit access and collective bargaining rather than legal advocacy alone. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
6. Claim and named evidence: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: The movement's successive organisational forms each carried a distinct mechanism and a distinct reach, and the emergence of Dalit and tribal women's organisations is direct evidence that mainstream bodies did not centre caste-linked constraints.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "Substantiate the view that the Indian women's movement has not served women of the lower...", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS

Question: Examine the challenges that Indian women continue to face across time and space. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: Unpaid care compresses the time available for schooling, work and organisation while mobility limits, harassment and unequal digital access compress the space available, so the two constraints must be answered together rather than one standing for the other.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.
- Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly.
- Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.
- The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions.

Qualified conclusion: Unpaid care compresses the time available for schooling, work and organisation while mobility limits, harassment and unequal digital access compress the space available, so the two constraints must be answered together rather than one standing for the other.

Demand decoding: The directive examine requires a direct position on "Examine the challenges that Indian women continue to face across time and space. Answer in...", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Unpaid care compresses the time available for schooling, work and organisation while mobility limits, harassment and unequal digital access compress the space available, so the two constraints must be answered together rather than one standing for the other.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
4. Claim and named evidence: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Unpaid care compresses the time available for schooling, work and organisation while mobility limits, harassment and unequal digital access compress the space available, so the two constraints must be answered together rather than one standing for the other.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise five points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "Examine the challenges that Indian women continue to face across time and space. Answer in...", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS

Question: Assess whether organisational membership can be treated as evidence of women's empowerment. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: Membership is an input measure and empowerment is an agency outcome, so the honest assessment tests whether an instrument reached the woman, whether she used it and whether the use changed a recognised decision.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here.

- Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment.
- The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions.
- A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer.
- A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer.
- A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage.

Qualified conclusion: Membership is an input measure and empowerment is an agency outcome, so the honest assessment tests whether an instrument reached the woman, whether she used it and whether the use changed a recognised decision.

Demand decoding: The directive assess requires a direct position on "Assess whether organisational membership can be treated as evidence of women's empowerment...", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Membership is an input measure and empowerment is an agency outcome, so the honest assessment tests whether an instrument reached the woman, whether she used it and whether the use changed a recognised decision.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Self-help group federations are savings-and-credit groups that federate upward into larger bodies and have become the most widespread contemporary grassroots women's organisational form, and the bonding, bridging and linking social-capital mechanism that explains their effectiveness is owned by Governance and cross-linked rather than re-derived here. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: Formal membership of a women's organisation or a self-help group is an input and coverage measure, while substantive voice requires that economic participation be converted into recognised decision-making inside the household and community, so enrolment counts can overstate empowerment. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: The National Family Health Survey round five, covering 2019-21, recorded that 78.6 per cent of women aged 15-49 had a bank or savings account that they themselves used and that 33.3 per cent had ever used the internet, and after the release of the sixth round on 29 May 2026 these remain dated access indicators that measure reach rather than control over assets, income or decisions. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

4. Claim and named evidence: A woman with full legal voting and property rights but no independent income, childcare support or mobility support illustrates equality existing without equity and therefore without empowerment, which is the boundary case that defeats a rights-only answer. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
5. Claim and named evidence: A self-help group member who receives credit while her husband continues to control loan-use decisions illustrates an equity instrument reaching a woman without translating into substantive agency, which is the boundary case that defeats a coverage-only answer. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
6. Claim and named evidence: A Self Employed Women's Association member who gains credit, joins collective bargaining and then takes an independent decision about her own enterprise shows the full chain completing, and the contrasting case of a Dalit woman agricultural labourer facing caste-based wage discrimination alongside gender constraints shows why a generic non-intersectional programme can miss compounded disadvantage. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Membership is an input measure and empowerment is an agency outcome, so the honest assessment tests whether an instrument reached the woman, whether she used it and whether the use changed a recognised decision.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 20-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise six to eight points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For "Assess whether organisational membership can be treated as evidence of women's empowerment...", replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.

ORIGINAL MAINS 6 - 20 MARKS

Question: Evaluate the evidentiary limits of explaining a reported rise in self-harm among young women through a single social cause. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: Reported categories describe outcomes rather than causes, so a defensible answer analyses stressors as candidate pathways, refuses monocausal attribution and closes with a prevention frame that is named, official and non-stigmatising.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024.
- Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach.

- Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly.
- The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement.

Qualified conclusion: Reported categories describe outcomes rather than causes, so a defensible answer analyses stressors as candidate pathways, refuses monocausal attribution and closes with a prevention frame that is named, official and non-stigmatising.

Demand decoding: The directive evaluate requires a direct position on "Evaluate the evidentiary limits of explaining a reported rise in self-harm among young women...", all clauses, a sociological mechanism, historical trajectory, intersectional and regional variation, named Indian evidence, constitutional/institutional boundaries and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Reported categories describe outcomes rather than causes, so a defensible answer analyses stressors as candidate pathways, refuses monocausal attribution and closes with a prevention frame that is named, official and non-stigmatising.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: Any answer about reported self-harm among young women must use the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare National Suicide Prevention Strategy of 2022, which frames prevention around surveillance, health-service capacity, community resilience and evidence, and must refuse to convert a reported category into a single social cause; five direct General Studies Paper-I demands are carried by this owner across 2018, 2019, 2021, 2023 and 2024. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
2. Claim and named evidence: Unpaid care and domestic work impose a time constraint that limits schooling, paid work, mobility and organisational participation, which is why a programme that assumes equal available time silently excludes the women it is meant to reach. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
3. Claim and named evidence: Women's presence in public, workplace and digital space is conditioned by mobility limits, harassment and safety concerns, so the challenge is spatial as well as temporal and any answer about women across time and space must treat both dimensions explicitly. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.
4. Claim and named evidence: The intersectionality critique raised by Dalit and tribal women's organisations holds that caste, class, tribe and religion shape women's experience differently, so a strategy effective for urban middle-class women may not address a Dalit agricultural labourer's constraints, and the emergence of separate organisations is a corrective rather than a fragmentation of the movement. Analysis: Connect structure or institution -> norm/incentive/power/agency mechanism -> differentiated social outcome -> feedback or policy implication. Qualification: State internal group variation, regional/historical scope, correlation-versus-causation or legal-norm-versus-lived-outcome boundary.

Counter-position / limit: Neither a constitutional provision, one scheme, aggregate correlation nor a single community example establishes uniform implementation, causation or national experience; test institutions, power, agency, intersectionality, region, period and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Reported categories describe outcomes rather than causes, so a defensible answer analyses stressors as candidate pathways, refuses monocausal attribution and closes with a prevention frame that is named, official and non-stigmatising.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 20-mark answer, spend about one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing the mechanism; define and state a thesis; organise six to eight points as claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification; compress examples before mechanisms and reserve the final minute for causation, group variation and legal-outcome limits.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains rather than lists, integrates India-centric evidence and avoids homogenisation, legalism and causal overclaim.

How to improve this answer: For “Evaluate the evidentiary limits of explaining a reported rise in self-harm among young women...”, replace the weakest generalisation with one named community, region, institution, movement or source-dated dataset and state what that evidence cannot establish.