

SOLVED PRACTICE WORKBOOK

Global South and Development Partnering - Solved Practice Workbook

UPSC complete learning session | Foundation to advanced | Concepts, evidence, practice and answer writing

Original deterministic study visual; labels are explanatory, not textual quotations.

Source order: repository knowledge -> official current linkage -> clearly marked analysis. No fabricated PYQs or statistics.

CONTENTS / WORKBOOK INDEX

Major learning parts and meaningful subtopics are listed in document order. Page numbers are generated from the final PDF layout; PDF bookmarks mirror the same hierarchy.

Global South and Development Partnering - Solved Practice Workbook 6

BASIC MCQS / REMEDIATION 6

Q1. Which statement correctly identifies What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?	6
Q2. Which card should be filed under What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed in an International Relations answer?	7
Q3. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?	8
Q4. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?	9
Q5. Which statement correctly identifies Global South as a category rather than an organisation?	9
Q6. Which card should be filed under Global South as a category rather than an organisation in an International Relations answer?	10
Q7. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Global South as a category rather than an organisation?	11
Q8. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Global South as a category rather than an organisation?	12
Q9. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?	13
Q10. Which card should be filed under The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition in an International Relations answer?	13
Q11. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?	14
Q12. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?	15
Q13. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?	15
Q14. Which card should be filed under The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it in an International Relations answer?	16
Q15. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?	17
Q16. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?	18
Q17. Which statement correctly identifies The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?	19
Q18. Which card should be filed under The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation in an International Relations answer?	20
Q19. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?	21
Q20. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?	21
Q21. Which statement correctly identifies Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?	22
Q22. Which card should be filed under Triangular cooperation as the third structural form in an International Relations answer?	23
Q23. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?	24

Q24. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?	24
Q25. Which statement correctly identifies The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?	25
Q26. Which card should be filed under The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience in an International Relations answer?	26
Q27. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?	26
Q28. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?	27
Q29. Which statement correctly identifies BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?	28
Q30. Which card should be filed under BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category in an International Relations answer?	28
Q31. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?	29
Q32. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?	30
Q33. Which statement correctly identifies India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?	30
Q34. Which card should be filed under India's aspirational leadership framing in the source in an International Relations answer?	31
Q35. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?	32
Q36. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?	32
Q37. Which statement correctly identifies The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?	33
Q38. Which card should be filed under The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument in an International Relations answer?	34
Q39. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?	34
Q40. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?	35
Q41. Which statement correctly identifies The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?	35
Q42. Which card should be filed under The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal in an International Relations answer?	36
Q43. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?	37
Q44. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?	37
Q45. Which statement correctly identifies The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?	38
Q46. Which card should be filed under The representation deficit as the unifying grievance in an International Relations answer?	39
Q47. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?	39
Q48. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?	40
Q49. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?	41
Q50. Which card should be filed under The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale in an International Relations answer?	41
Q51. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?	42

Q52. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?	43
Q53. Which statement correctly identifies India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?	43
Q54. Which card should be filed under India's development-partnership footprint worldwide in an International Relations answer?	44
Q55. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?	45
Q56. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?	45
Q57. Which statement correctly identifies India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?	46
Q58. Which card should be filed under India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts in an International Relations answer?	47
Q59. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?	48
Q60. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?	48
Q61. Which statement correctly identifies India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?	49
Q62. Which card should be filed under India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29 in an International Relations answer?	50
Q63. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?	51
Q64. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?	51
Q65. Which statement correctly identifies The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?	52
Q66. Which card should be filed under The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status in an International Relations answer?	53
Q67. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?	54
Q68. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?	55
Q69. Which statement correctly identifies Internal contestation inside the South?	55
Q70. Which card should be filed under Internal contestation inside the South in an International Relations answer?	56
Q71. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Internal contestation inside the South?	57
Q72. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Internal contestation inside the South?	58
Q73. Which statement correctly identifies Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?	58
Q74. Which card should be filed under Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power in an International Relations answer?	59
Q75. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?	60
Q76. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?	60
Q77. Which statement correctly identifies Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?	61
Q78. Which card should be filed under Honest question ownership for this Global South owner in an International Relations answer?	62
Q79. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?	63
Q80. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?	64

PYQS AND ANSWER PRACTICE	65
VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT	65
OWNER PYQ LEDGER EXTRACTS	65
PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2019 General Studies Paper II Question 19	66
ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS	69
ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS	71
ORIGINAL MAINS 3 - 15 MARKS	73
ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS	75
ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS	77
ORIGINAL MAINS 6 - 20 MARKS	79

Global South and Development Partnering - Solved Practice Workbook

BASIC MCQS / REMEDIATION

Q1. Which statement correctly identifies What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?

A. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. B. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Answer: A. Explanation: This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q2. Which card should be filed under What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed in an International Relations answer?

A. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. B. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.

Answer: B. Explanation: This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q3. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?

A. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: C. Explanation: This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q4. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about What this Global South owner holds and how its boundaries are routed?

A. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. D. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01.

Answer: D. Explanation: This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q5. Which statement correctly identifies Global South as a category rather than an organisation?

A. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. B. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q6. Which card should be filed under Global South as a category rather than an organisation in an International Relations answer?

A. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. B. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. C. The same

United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q7. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Global South as a category rather than an organisation?

A. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. B. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. C. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q8. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Global South as a category rather than an organisation?

A. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. B. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. C. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. D. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q9. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?

A. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. D. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held.

Answer: A. Explanation: Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q10. Which card should be filed under The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. B. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. C. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: B. Explanation: Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q11. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. C. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. D. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors.

Answer: C. Explanation: Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q12. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of 77 as a specific negotiating coalition?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. C. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. D. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.

Answer: D. Explanation: Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q13. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?

A. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q14. Which card should be filed under The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. C. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. D. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q15. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?

A. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. B. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q16. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of 77's own machinery as its Secretariat records it?

A. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. B. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. C. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. D. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q17. Which statement correctly identifies The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?

A. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. D. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others.

Answer: A. Explanation: The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q18. Which card should be filed under The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. C. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. D. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests.

Answer: B. Explanation: The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q19. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. C. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. D. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.

Answer: C. Explanation: The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q20. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The doctrinal definition of South-South cooperation?

A. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. B. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. C. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. D. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.

Answer: D. Explanation: The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q21. Which statement correctly identifies Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?

A. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. B. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. C. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. D. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others.

Answer: A. Explanation: The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q22. Which card should be filed under Triangular cooperation as the third structural form in an International Relations answer?

A. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. D. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions.

Answer: B. Explanation: The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q23. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?

A. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. B. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. C. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. D. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Answer: C. Explanation: The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q24. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Triangular cooperation as the third structural form?

A. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. B. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. C. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. D. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors.

Answer: D. Explanation: The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q25. Which statement correctly identifies The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?

A. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. B. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. C. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. D. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q26. Which card should be filed under The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience in an International Relations answer?

A. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. B. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. C. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. D. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q27. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?

A. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. B. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. C. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. D. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q28. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Non-Aligned Movement's narrowed institutional salience?

A. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. B. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. C. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. D. The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners record the Non-Aligned Movement as historically linked to Global South solidarity while noting that its contemporary institutional salience has narrowed, and they place its bloc-avoidance heritage alongside the Group of 77's negotiating function and the financial-voice focus of BRICS as three different responses to the same underlying grievance; the analytical consequence is that an answer must not treat the three as interchangeable expressions of one movement, because each addresses a different facet of the representation problem and none has merged into the others. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q29. Which statement correctly identifies BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?

A. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. B. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. C. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. D. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q30. Which card should be filed under BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category in an International Relations answer?

A. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. B. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q31. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?

A. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. B. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. C. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q32. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about BRICS as a distinct grouping with a partner category?

A. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. B. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q33. Which statement correctly identifies India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?

A. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. B. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.

Answer: A. Explanation: Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q34. Which card should be filed under India's aspirational leadership framing in the source in an International Relations answer?

A. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. B. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. C. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. D. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged.

Answer: B. Explanation: Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q35. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?

A. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. B. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. C. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. D. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.

Answer: C. Explanation: Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q36. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's aspirational leadership framing in the source?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. C. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. D. Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests.

Answer: D. Explanation: Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q37. Which statement correctly identifies The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?

A. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. B. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q38. Which card should be filed under The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument in an International Relations answer?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q39. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. C. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q40. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Voice of Global South Summit as India's own instrument?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q41. Which statement correctly identifies The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?

A. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. B. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. C. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. D. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.

Answer: A. Explanation: India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q42. Which card should be filed under The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal in an International Relations answer?

A. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. B. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. C. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. D. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.

Answer: B. Explanation: India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q43. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. C. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. D. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

Answer: C. Explanation: India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q44. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Global Development Compact as a four-fold proposal?

A. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. B. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. C. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. D. India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Answer: D. Explanation: India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q45. Which statement correctly identifies The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?

A. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. B. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. C. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. The remaining options belong to different actors, Q46. Which card should be filed under The representation deficit as the unifying grievance in an International Relations answer?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q47. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?

A. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. B. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. C. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q48. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The representation deficit as the unifying grievance?

A. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. B. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q49. Which statement correctly identifies The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?

A. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. B. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

Answer: A. Explanation: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q50. Which card should be filed under The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale in an International Relations answer?

A. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. B. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

Answer: B. Explanation: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q51. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?

A. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. B. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. C. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: C. Explanation: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q52. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Group of Twenty outcome that shows realistic scale?

A. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. B. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. C. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. D. The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.

Answer: D. Explanation: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q53. Which statement correctly identifies India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?

A. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. B. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q54. Which card should be filed under India's development-partnership footprint worldwide in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. B. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q55. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. C. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q56. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's development-partnership footprint worldwide?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. C. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. D. The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q57. Which statement correctly identifies India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?

A. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. B. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: A. Explanation: The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q58. Which card should be filed under India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. C. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: B. Explanation: The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q59. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?

A. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. B. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. C. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: C. Explanation: The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q60. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India-initiated plurilateral platforms and their counts?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. C. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. D. The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

Answer: D. Explanation: The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q61. Which statement correctly identifies India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?

A. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. B. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. C. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: A. Explanation: India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q62. Which card should be filed under India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29 in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. B. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. C. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. D. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred.

Answer: B. Explanation: India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q63. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?

A. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. D. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly.

Answer: C. Explanation: India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q64. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about India's Security Council candidature for 2028-29?

A. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. D. India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process.

Answer: D. Explanation: India launched its candidature for a non-permanent United Nations Security Council seat for 2028-29 on 13 July 2026, which the owners treat as the clearest current expression of the representation-deficit grievance converted into a specific and dated institutional ask; the boundary is that the reform architecture itself, including permanent-membership questions and the negotiating formats through which they are pursued, belongs to topic 12, so this owner cites the candidature as a live ask rather than analysing the reform process. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q65. Which statement correctly identifies The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?

A. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: A. Explanation: Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q66. Which card should be filed under The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred.

Answer: B. Explanation: Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q67. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?

A. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. D. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Answer: C. Explanation: Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q68. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about The Latin American and Caribbean limb and its exact status?

A. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. B. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Answer: D. Explanation: Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q69. Which statement correctly identifies Internal contestation inside the South?

A. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. B. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q70. Which card should be filed under Internal contestation inside the South in an International Relations answer?

A. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. B. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. C. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. D. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q71. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Internal contestation inside the South?

A. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. B. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. C. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. D. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q72. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Internal contestation inside the South?

A. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. B. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. C. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. D. The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q73. Which statement correctly identifies Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?

A. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Answer: A. Explanation: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q74. Which card should be filed under Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power in an International Relations answer?

A. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. B. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. C. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01. D. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.

Answer: B. Explanation: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q75. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?

A. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. B. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. C. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. D. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held.

Answer: C. Explanation: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q76. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Norm entrepreneurship against institutional power?

A. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. B. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly.

Answer: D. Explanation: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q77. Which statement correctly identifies Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?

A. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. B. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. C. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. D. This topic owns the Global South as a political-development category, the coalitions through which it is expressed, South-South and triangular cooperation as doctrines, India's convening and norm-entrepreneurship role, the development-partnership footprint that gives the convening credibility, and the representation-deficit grievance that unifies otherwise diverse states; its distinctive feature is that the subject has no single organisation to describe, so precision about categories and instruments carries the marks, and one General Studies Paper II Mains demand from 2019 is routed here with no objective demand routed at all, while the BRICS and Group of Twenty institutional profiles belong to topic 10, the United Nations and Bretton Woods reform architecture belongs to topic 12, Africa-specific delivery belongs to topic 07 and multi-alignment vocabulary belongs to topic 01.

Answer: A. Explanation: The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q78. Which card should be filed under Honest question ownership for this Global South owner in an International Relations answer?

A. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. B. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. C. The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. D. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.

Answer: B. Explanation: The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q79. Which option preserves the source-bounded meaning of Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?

A. Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. B. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. C. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. D. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held.

Answer: C. Explanation: The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

Q80. Which statement avoids a close-option trap about Honest question ownership for this Global South owner?

A. The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. B. The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. C. The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. D. The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred.

Answer: D. Explanation: The audited ledgers route one General Studies Paper II Mains demand to this owner, namely 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail; no objective demand from any audited Prelims ledger is routed to this owner, and the Basic owner separately records that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role, which is stated honestly here instead of force-fitting an adjacent question, and no option, answer letter or unrouted question is recorded or inferred. The remaining options belong to different actors, instruments, evidentiary levels or analytical categories.

PYQS AND ANSWER PRACTICE

VERIFIED PYQ OWNERSHIP AUDIT

One General Studies Paper II Mains demand is routed to this topic in the audited routing ledgers and it is reproduced below as a demand card with its printed year, paper, question number, directive, marks and word limit exactly as the ledger records them: 2019 General Studies Paper II question 19 on India's image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations, an Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words, for which the ledger records that the Core route supersedes the older Advanced ownership and that the word limit was taken from the paper's instruction block rather than from a per-question printed tail, a defect that is reported here rather than repaired by invented wording. No objective demand from any audited Prelims routing ledger is routed to this owner, so none is listed, invented or answered. The Basic and Advanced owners separately record that no General Studies Paper II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South, South-South cooperation or India's voice-aggregator role; that absence is stated honestly instead of force-fitting an adjacent question onto this owner. The locally held OCR-searchable official General Studies papers were read only to confirm the printed wording of the routed Mains demand; no question was invented from them, no stem was paraphrased into an apparent routing, and no marking scheme or official answer key was imported.

OWNER PYQ LEDGER EXTRACTS

9. PYQ application

- ANALYSIS: No GS-II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South or South-South cooperation. State this honestly. Use the Voice of Global South Summit (17 August 2024) and the representation-deficit argument as the structuring vocabulary for any Global South-themed question, while cross-linking to topic 12 for the institutional-reform dimension.

Historical PYQ Integration (2018-2023)

Status: Question-level PYQ demand is integrated into this owner. Provenance: Audited local official-paper routing ledgers: _PYQ-ROUTING-MAINS-GS1-GS2-ESSAY-2018-2023.md.

- Years represented: 2019
- Paper(s): GS-II
- Routed question demands: 1

Year	Paper	Q	PYQ demand (neutral rendering)	Directive / format	Source status	Owner requirement
2019	GS-II	19	India's image as leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations	Elaborate · 15 marks · 250 words	Core route supersedes older Advanced ownership	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.

What this owner must now support

- India's image as leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations

The table integrates the examinable demand and paper metadata. It does not turn an unkeyed objective question into a solved answer, and it does not claim that lexical presence alone proves full conceptual sufficiency.

10. PYQ-based analytical application

- ANALYSIS: No GS-II Mains question in the audited 2024-2025 papers directly names the Global South or South-South cooperation. An advanced analytical answer on this theme should nonetheless:

1. Distinguish the representation-deficit grievance from the internal diversity of Southern states.

2. Separate G77, NAM and BRICS as distinct, only partially overlapping coalitions.

3. Frame India's role as aspirational norm entrepreneurship rather than settled leadership.

4. Link the representation-deficit grievance explicitly to the UN/Bretton Woods reform debate (topic 12).

Historical PYQ Integration (2018-2023)

Status: Question-level PYQ demand is integrated into this owner. Provenance: Audited local official-paper routing ledgers: _PYQ-ROUTING-MAINS-GS1-GS2-ESSAY-2018-2023.md.

- Years represented: 2019
- Paper(s): GS-II
- Routed question demands: 1

Year	Paper	Q	PYQ demand (neutral rendering)	Directive / format	Source status	Owner requirement
2019	GS-II	19	India's image as leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations	Elaborate · 15 marks · 250 words	Routed to owning topic; word limit taken from the instruction block	Prepare context, core dimensions, evidence/examples, counterpoint and a concise conclusion.

What this owner must now support

- India's image as leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations

The table integrates the examinable demand and paper metadata. It does not turn an unkeyed objective question into a solved answer, and it does not claim that lexical presence alone proves full conceptual sufficiency.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2019 General Studies Paper II Question 19

Demand: 'The long-sustained image of India as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations has disappeared on account of its new found role in the emerging global order.' Elaborate. An Elaborate demand of 15 marks and 250 words, exactly as recorded in the audited 2018-2023 Mains routing ledger and confirmed against the locally held official paper, where the printed per-question tail carries the mark value and the word limit is taken from the paper's instruction block.

Status: Routed to this owner in the audited 2018-2023 Mains routing ledger, where the Core route is recorded as superseding the older Advanced ownership. No official answer key exists for a Mains demand and none is claimed, and the word-limit provenance is reported rather than reconstructed.

Model solution: Claim: the image has changed rather than disappeared, because India has moved from declaratory solidarity towards instrument-based development partnering and institution building, and the honest verdict is that the leadership claim is now more materially grounded and simultaneously more contested. Named evidence and example: Sikri's framing that for countries too weak to follow autonomous policies but ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player India has become a potential leader; Tharoor's description of the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, whose Secretariat records a one-year Chairmanship rotating between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean, held for the year 2026 by the Oriental Republic of Uruguay in New York, and a South Summit as its supreme decision-making body held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and Doha from 12-16 June 2005; the United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation's guiding principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit, traced to the Buenos Aires Plan of Action endorsed by General Assembly resolution 33/134 of 1978; India's own Voice of Global South Summit convened on 12-13 January 2023, 17 November 2023 and 17 August 2024, with the four-fold Global Development Compact proposed at the third edition; more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries; the Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure with 70 members as of June 2026, the Global Biofuels Alliance launched on 9 September 2023 and the International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement in force from 6 December 2017; the African Union's admission as a permanent Group of Twenty member on 9 September 2023; and India's candidature for a non-permanent Security Council seat for 2028-29 launched on 13 July 2026. Analysis: the change is one of register rather than of abandonment, since a rhetoric of anti-colonial solidarity has been replaced by convening platforms, treaty-based institutions, concessional credit and a specific representation ask, and this trades moral universality for verifiable output; the emerging-order role cuts both ways, because participation in the Group of Twenty, the Quad-adjacent conversations and Bretton Woods engagement gives India access that pure solidarity never delivered, while simultaneously exposing it to the charge that it now negotiates as a rising power rather than as a spokesman for the marginalised. Qualification: the elaboration must not overstate either limb, because Sikri's phrase is explicitly aspirational rather than a record of acknowledged leadership, the Global South is internally contested on climate burden-sharing and development space so no single state can speak for it, extended credit lines are commitments and not disbursements, membership counts are participation and not delivery, convening is agenda-setting input while reform decisions are taken in the institutional venues themselves, and the African Union's Group of Twenty seat shows success at the realistic scale of one forum rather than systemic redistribution. Why this earns marks: it answers the directive by tracing a documented change of instrument rather than asserting continuity or collapse, evidences every limb with dated and sourced anchors, and closes with a graded verdict that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on "PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2019 General Studies Paper II Question 19", every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Claim: the image has changed rather than disappeared, because India has moved from declaratory solidarity towards instrument-based development partnering and institution building, and the honest verdict is that the leadership claim is now more materially grounded and simultaneously more contested. Named evidence and example: Sikri's framing that for countries too weak to follow autonomous policies but ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player India has become a potential leader; Tharoor's description of the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, whose Secretariat records a one-year Chairmanship rotating between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean, held for the year 2026 by the Oriental Republic of Uruguay in New York, and a South Summit as its supreme decision-making body held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and Doha from 12-16 June 2005; the United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation's guiding principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit, traced to the Buenos Aires Plan of Action endorsed by General Assembly resolution 33/134 of 1978; India's own Voice of Global South Summit convened on 12-13 January 2023, 17 November 2023 and 17 August 2024, with the four-fold Global Development Compact proposed at the third edition; more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries; the Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure with 70 members as of June 2026, the Global Biofuels Alliance launched on 9 September 2023 and the International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement in force from 6 December 2017; the African Union's admission as a permanent Group of Twenty member on 9 September 2023; and India's candidature for a non-permanent Security Council seat for 2028-29 launched on 13 July 2026. Analysis: the change is one of register rather than of abandonment, since a rhetoric of anti-colonial solidarity has been replaced by convening platforms, treaty-based institutions, concessional credit and a specific representation ask, and this trades moral universality for verifiable output; the emerging-order role cuts both ways, because participation in the Group of Twenty, the Quad-adjacent conversations and Bretton Woods engagement gives India access that pure solidarity never delivered, while simultaneously exposing it to the charge that it now negotiates as a rising power rather than as a spokesman for the marginalised. Qualification: the elaboration must not overstate either limb, because Sikri's phrase is explicitly aspirational rather than a record of acknowledged leadership, the Global South is internally contested on climate burden-sharing and development space so no single state can speak for it, extended credit lines are commitments and not disbursements, membership counts are participation and not delivery, convening is agenda-setting input while reform decisions are taken in the institutional venues themselves, and the African Union's

Group of Twenty seat shows success at the realistic scale of one forum rather than systemic redistribution. Why this earns marks: it answers the directive by tracing a documented change of instrument rather than asserting continuity or collapse, evidences every limb with dated and sourced anchors, and closes with a graded verdict that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2019 General Studies Paper II Question 19 Analysis:

Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Claim: the image has changed rather than disappeared, because India has moved from declaratory solidarity towards instrument-based development partnering and institution building, and the honest verdict is that the leadership claim is now more materially grounded and simultaneously more contested. Named evidence and example: Sikri's framing that for countries too weak to follow autonomous policies but ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player India has become a potential leader; Tharoor's description of the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, whose Secretariat records a one-year Chairmanship rotating between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean, held for the year 2026 by the Oriental Republic of Uruguay in New York, and a South Summit as its supreme decision-making body held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and Doha from 12-16 June 2005; the United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation's guiding principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit, traced to the Buenos Aires Plan of Action endorsed by General Assembly resolution 33/134 of 1978; India's own Voice of Global South Summit convened on 12-13 January 2023, 17 November 2023 and 17 August 2024, with the four-fold Global Development Compact proposed at the third edition; more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries; the Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure with 70 members as of June 2026, the Global Biofuels Alliance launched on 9 September 2023 and the International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement in force from 6 December 2017; the African Union's admission as a permanent Group of Twenty member on 9 September 2023; and India's candidature for a non-permanent Security Council seat for 2028-29 launched on 13 July 2026. Analysis: the change is one of register rather than of abandonment, since a rhetoric of anti-colonial solidarity has been replaced by convening platforms, treaty-based institutions, concessional credit and a specific representation ask, and this trades moral universality for verifiable output; the emerging-order role cuts both ways, because participation in the Group of Twenty, the Quad-adjacent conversations and Bretton Woods engagement gives India access that pure solidarity never delivered, while simultaneously exposing it to the charge that it now negotiates as a rising power rather than as a spokesman for the marginalised. Qualification: the elaboration must not overstate either limb, because Sikri's phrase is explicitly aspirational rather than a record of acknowledged leadership, the Global South is internally contested on climate burden-sharing and development space so no single state can speak for it, extended credit lines are commitments and not disbursements, membership counts are participation and not delivery, convening is agenda-setting input while reform decisions are taken in the institutional venues themselves, and the African Union's Group of Twenty seat shows success at the realistic scale of one forum rather than systemic redistribution. Why this earns marks: it answers the directive by tracing a documented change of instrument rather than asserting continuity or collapse, evidences every limb with dated and sourced anchors, and closes with a graded verdict that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 15 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

How to improve this answer: For "PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2019 General Studies Paper II Question 19", replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS

Question: Distinguish the Global South as a category from the Group of 77 and BRICS as institutions, and explain why the distinction matters for India's development diplomacy. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Precision is the whole answer here, so the distinction must define the category, contrast it with a named coalition and a named grouping, and show that the practical consequence is which platform India uses for which purpose.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.
- Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark.
- The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held.
- The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions.

Qualified conclusion: Precision is the whole answer here, so the distinction must define the category, contrast it with a named coalition and a named grouping, and show that the practical consequence is which platform India uses for which purpose.

Demand decoding: The directive explain requires a direct position on "Distinguish the Global South as a category from the Group of 77 and BRICS as institutions,...", every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Precision is the whole answer here, so the distinction must define the category, contrast it with a named coalition and a named grouping, and show that the practical consequence is which platform India uses for which purpose.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.
Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
2. Claim and named evidence: Tharoor describes the Group of 77 as the massive gathering of over 120 developing countries, which the owners treat as a specific and long-standing negotiating coalition inside the United Nations system rather than as a synonym for the Global South; the distinction is repeatedly tested, because the Group of 77 has a defined membership and an institutional structure while the Global South is a looser category that is not fully coextensive with it, so an answer that uses the two words interchangeably has already lost the definitional mark. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence.
Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
3. Claim and named evidence: The Group of 77 Secretariat's own page, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that a Chairman acts as spokesman and coordinates the Group's action in each Chapter, that the Chairmanship is the highest political body within the organisational structure and rotates on a regional basis between Africa, Asia-Pacific and Latin America and the Caribbean for one year in all the Chapters, that for the year 2026 the Oriental Republic of Uruguay holds the Chairmanship of the Group of 77 in New York, that the South Summit is the supreme decision-making body with the first held at Havana from 10-14 April 2000 and the second at Doha from 12-16 June 2005, that the Annual Meeting of the Ministers for Foreign Affairs is convened at the beginning of the regular session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and that the Intergovernmental Follow-up and Coordination Committee on South-South Cooperation is a plenary body of senior officials meeting once every two years to review implementation of the Caracas Programme of Action adopted in 1981; the same page still described the Third South Summit as due to be held in Africa, which is recorded here as the page's own state on the date of access rather than as a claim about whether such a summit has since been held. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
4. Claim and named evidence: The owners record BRICS as a distinct and expanding grouping with a financial-architecture-specific agenda whose seventeenth summit issued the Rio de Janeiro Declaration on 6-7 July 2025, with its full institutional profile reserved for topic 10, and they warn that BRICS is only partially coextensive with the Global South and is not a larger version of the Group of 77; they add an instructive detail, namely that the separate partner-country category created on 24 October 2024 widens participation without widening membership rights, which is precisely the distinction the Global South itself presses against the Security Council and the Bretton Woods institutions. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Precision is the whole answer here, so the distinction must define the category, contrast it with a named coalition and a named grouping, and show that the practical consequence is which platform India uses for which purpose.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 10 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Distinguish the Global South as a category from the Group of 77 and BRICS as institutions,...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS

Question: Comment on the proposition that convening a summit is equivalent to securing institutional reform. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Convening and reform are separate steps, so the comment must date the convening instrument, name the grievance it aggregates, cite the one realistic-scale outcome actually achieved, and refuse to treat momentum as a decision.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.
- The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged.
- The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.
- The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly.

Qualified conclusion: Convening and reform are separate steps, so the comment must date the convening instrument, name the grievance it aggregates, cite the one realistic-scale outcome actually achieved, and refuse to treat momentum as a decision.

Demand decoding: The directive comment requires a direct position on “Comment on the proposition that convening a summit is equivalent to securing institutional...”, every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Convening and reform are separate steps, so the comment must date the convening instrument, name the grievance it aggregates, cite the one realistic-scale outcome actually achieved, and refuse to treat momentum as a decision.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
2. Claim and named evidence: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
3. Claim and named evidence: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
4. Claim and named evidence: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Convening and reform are separate steps, so the comment must date the convening instrument, name the grievance it aggregates, cite the one realistic-scale outcome actually achieved, and refuse to treat momentum as a decision.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 10 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Comment on the proposition that convening a summit is equivalent to securing institutional...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 3 - 15 MARKS

Question: Elaborate on the claim that India's long-sustained image as a leader of the oppressed and marginalised nations has disappeared on account of its new-found role in the emerging global order. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The claim is testable rather than rhetorical, so the elaboration must weigh the aspirational leadership framing against dated convening, development-partnership and representation evidence, and must concede internal contestation before delivering a graded verdict.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests.
- The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition.
- The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.
- The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

Qualified conclusion: The claim is testable rather than rhetorical, so the elaboration must weigh the aspirational leadership framing against dated convening, development-partnership and representation evidence, and must concede internal contestation before delivering a graded verdict.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on “Elaborate on the claim that India's long-sustained image as a leader of the oppressed and...”, every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: The claim is testable rather than rhetorical, so the elaboration must weigh the aspirational leadership framing against dated convening, development-partnership and representation evidence, and must concede internal contestation before delivering a graded verdict.

Analytical body:

- 1. Claim and named evidence: Sikri writes that for countries that may be too weak to follow autonomous policies but remain ready to rally behind a stronger country that can be an independent global player, India has become a potential leader, and the owners insist that this is explicitly aspirational language describing an opportunity India can pursue rather than an achieved or universally acknowledged status; the defensible formulation for an answer is therefore that India speaks within the Global South rather than for it, because whether weaker states rally behind an Indian framing on any given issue depends on whether the specific proposal matches their own interests.

Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 2. Claim and named evidence: The Voice of Global South Summit is India's dedicated virtual platform for aggregating developing-country priorities before and after major multilateral events, and the owners record its editions exactly: the first on 12-13 January 2023, the second on 17 November 2023 and the third on 17 August 2024, with no fourth edition officially recorded as held or announced as of 3 August 2026; the owners treat this as a convening and agenda-setting instrument rather than a decision-making or treaty body, so the honest statement about convening capacity includes the absence of a recorded fourth edition. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 3. Claim and named evidence: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 4. Claim and named evidence: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: The claim is testable rather than rhetorical, so the elaboration must weigh the aspirational leadership framing against dated convening, development-partnership and representation evidence, and must concede internal contestation before delivering a graded verdict.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 15 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Elaborate on the claim that India’s long-sustained image as a leader of the oppressed and...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS

Question: Examine the doctrinal principles that distinguish South-South cooperation from traditional development assistance, and assess how far India’s practice matches them. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: Doctrine must be quoted precisely and then tested, so the examination must name the United Nations guiding principles and the Buenos Aires Plan of Action, define triangular cooperation, and match Indian instruments to each principle without claiming a perfect fit.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States.
- The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors.
- The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India’s convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.
- India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme.

Qualified conclusion: Doctrine must be quoted precisely and then tested, so the examination must name the United Nations guiding principles and the Buenos Aires Plan of Action, define triangular cooperation, and match Indian instruments to each principle without claiming a perfect fit.

Demand decoding: The directive examine requires a direct position on “Examine the doctrinal principles that distinguish South-South cooperation from traditional...”, every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Doctrine must be quoted precisely and then tested, so the examination must name the United Nations guiding principles and the Buenos Aires Plan of Action, define triangular cooperation, and match Indian instruments to each principle without claiming a perfect fit.

Analytical body:

- 1. Claim and named evidence: The United Nations Office for South-South Cooperation, checked live on 2026-09-03, records that South-South cooperation is a manifestation of solidarity among peoples and countries of the South contributing to their national well-being, their national and collective self-reliance and the attainment of internationally agreed development goals, and that its agenda and initiatives must be determined by the countries of the South and guided by the principles of respect for national sovereignty, national ownership and independence, equality, non-conditionality, non-interference in domestic affairs and mutual benefit; it further records that the basic objectives come from the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among Developing Countries endorsed by the General Assembly in 1978 through resolution 33/134, which include fostering self-reliance, pooling technical resources, strengthening joint analysis of development problems, creating and strengthening technological capacities, improving communication among developing countries and responding to the problems of least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 2. Claim and named evidence: The same United Nations source defines triangular cooperation as Southern-driven partnerships between two or more developing countries supported by a developed country or countries or by multilateral organisations to implement development cooperation programmes and projects, and records the reasoning that Southern partners often require the financial and technical support and expertise of multilateral or developed-country partners while Northern partners benefit from increased institutional capacity in the South and from leveraging the resources of multiple Southern partners; the owners use this to supply the precise vocabulary an answer needs when it argues that South-South cooperation complements rather than replaces North-South development assistance, provided the process is led and owned by Southern actors. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 3. Claim and named evidence: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
- 4. Claim and named evidence: India proposed the Global Development Compact at the third Voice of Global South Summit on 17 August 2024 as a four-fold framework covering trade for development, capacity building for sustainable growth, technology sharing, and project-specific concessional finance and grants, and the owners require it to be described as a proposal announced at a summit rather than as an operational institution with its own secretariat, budget or finance window; the examinable consequence is that a candidate should treat it as an agenda item unless a dated operational instrument is cited, and should not convert a four-part proposal into a functioning programme. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence.

Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Doctrine must be quoted precisely and then tested, so the examination must name the United Nations guiding principles and the Buenos Aires Plan of Action, define triangular cooperation, and match Indian instruments to each principle without claiming a perfect fit.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 15 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Examine the doctrinal principles that distinguish South-South cooperation from traditional...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS

Question: Assess whether India can convert Global South convening capacity into verifiable development outcomes. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: Conversion is the analytical question, so the assessment must set convening against delivery evidence, price commitments and membership counts honestly, use the one achieved representation outcome as the benchmark, and close on what would count as proof.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met.
- The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim.
- The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence.

- Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density.

Qualified conclusion: Conversion is the analytical question, so the assessment must set convening against delivery evidence, price commitments and membership counts honestly, use the one achieved representation outcome as the benchmark, and close on what would count as proof.

Demand decoding: The directive assess requires a direct position on “Assess whether India can convert Global South convening capacity into verifiable development...”, every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: Conversion is the analytical question, so the assessment must set convening against delivery evidence, price commitments and membership counts honestly, use the one achieved representation outcome as the benchmark, and close on what would count as proof.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: The African Union became a permanent member of the Group of Twenty at the New Delhi Summit on 9 September 2023, and the owners treat this as the one concrete representation change achieved in this cycle and as useful precisely because it shows what success looks like at realistic scale, namely one forum and one seat rather than systemic redistribution; the qualification is that this outcome does not resolve financing, implementation or United Nations representation deficits, so it should be cited as a benchmark for achievable change rather than as evidence that the wider grievance has been met. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
2. Claim and named evidence: The Ministry of External Affairs records more than 260 Lines of Credit valued above USD 26 billion across roughly 62 countries worldwide, which the owners treat as the material base that makes India's convening role credible rather than merely rhetorical; the boundary is stated in the same place, because these are extended or committed facilities and not disbursed amounts, so an answer that cites the figure must attach the commitment qualifier or it converts a partnership claim into an unverified delivery claim. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
3. Claim and named evidence: The Coalition for Disaster Resilient Infrastructure had 70 members, comprising 58 countries and 12 partner organisations, as of June 2026; the Global Biofuels Alliance, launched on 9 September 2023, had 25 countries and 12 international organisations agreeing to join as of 30 July 2026; and the treaty-based International Solar Alliance Framework Agreement entered into force on 6 December 2017, establishing an intergovernmental organisation headquartered in India for solar policy coordination, finance mobilisation, capacity building and technology cooperation; the owners record all three as evidence that India converts a Global South concern into a permanent institution, while insisting that membership counts and aggregate targets are not country-level delivery evidence. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

4. Claim and named evidence: Brazil is a bilateral strategic partner and co-member with India of BRICS, the India-Brazil-South Africa Dialogue Forum, the Group of Twenty and the Group of Four, with cooperation spanning biofuels, agriculture, pharmaceuticals, defence and global-governance reform; the India-MERCOSUR Preferential Trade Agreement was signed in 2004 and became operational from 1 June 2009 as a limited goods-preference agreement rather than a comprehensive free-trade agreement; the existing India-Chile Preferential Trade Agreement was expanded in 2017, comprehensive economic partnership terms of reference were signed in May 2025 and a fourth negotiation round concluded on 5 December 2025, which the owners insist is negotiation progress and not an agreement concluded or in force; and India-Community of Latin American and Caribbean States dialogue provides a regional route across a diverse thirty-three-state region whose commercial conversion is constrained by distance, limited connectivity, language, awareness and modest institutional density. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: Conversion is the analytical question, so the assessment must set convening against delivery evidence, price commitments and membership counts honestly, use the one achieved representation outcome as the benchmark, and close on what would count as proof.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 20 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Assess whether India can convert Global South convening capacity into verifiable development...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.

ORIGINAL MAINS 6 - 20 MARKS

Question: Assess the proposition that the Global South is unified by grievance rather than by homogeneity. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: The proposition is largely correct but needs evidencing on both limbs, so the assessment must establish the shared grievance, evidence internal divergence with concrete interest conflicts, separate agenda-setting from institutional power, and end with a qualified verdict rather than a slogan.

Claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification:

- The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged.
- The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem.

- The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly.
- The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error.

Qualified conclusion: The proposition is largely correct but needs evidencing on both limbs, so the assessment must establish the shared grievance, evidence internal divergence with concrete interest conflicts, separate agenda-setting from institutional power, and end with a qualified verdict rather than a slogan.

Demand decoding: The directive assess requires a direct position on “Assess the proposition that the Global South is unified by grievance rather than by...”, every clause, bilateral/regional/systemic mapping, interests and constraints, objective-instrument-implementation-outcome separation, named Indian evidence, trade-offs, alternatives, implementation risks and a qualified conclusion.

Detailed examiner-grade model answer:

Introduction and thesis: The proposition is largely correct but needs evidencing on both limbs, so the assessment must establish the shared grievance, evidence internal divergence with concrete interest conflicts, separate agenda-setting from institutional power, and end with a qualified verdict rather than a slogan.

Analytical body:

1. Claim and named evidence: The owners identify the representation deficit as the argument that existing multilateral institutions, specifically Security Council composition and International Monetary Fund and World Bank governance, under-represent developing countries relative to their demographic and economic weight, and they treat it as the most consistent unifying theme across otherwise diverse Southern states; the analytical discipline attached is that aggregating this grievance through a convening platform is agenda-setting input while the reform decisions themselves are taken in the institutional venues owned by topic 12, so the two steps must never be merged. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
2. Claim and named evidence: The owners record that middle-income emerging economies, least-developed countries, small island states and resource-rich states within the Global South category often have divergent and sometimes conflicting interests, with climate burden-sharing as the standing example, since small island states face existential climate risk, resource-exporting states face transition costs and larger emerging economies press development-space claims; the analytical consequence is that Global South unity on any issue is a negotiated outcome rather than a natural given, so an answer that assumes a single unified negotiating position has assumed away the hardest part of the problem. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.
3. Claim and named evidence: The owners define norm entrepreneurship as active agenda-setting on a specific normative claim, such as vaccine equity, digital public infrastructure as a shareable public good or climate-finance justice, intended to reshape how the international community frames an issue, and they separate it sharply from institutional power; the point that earns marks is that securing an agenda item does not by itself secure the institutional change the grievance targets, that coalition overlap across the Group of 77, the Non-Aligned Movement, BRICS and dedicated summits raises coordination and resource costs, and that norm entrepreneurship succeeds issue by issue rather than uniformly. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

4. Claim and named evidence: The owners define the Global South as a political-development category referring broadly to developing and least-developed countries across Asia, Africa and Latin America, defined more by shared development challenges and historical positioning than by formal institutional membership, and they insist that it is not a treaty body, has no fixed membership roll and takes no binding decisions; the examinable consequence is that an answer must engage it through multiple overlapping platforms rather than describe a single institution, because treating the category as a bloc converts a defensible framing into a scoring error. Analysis: Connect Indian and partner interests -> chosen diplomatic, security, economic or institutional instrument -> implementation mechanism -> bilateral, regional and systemic consequence. Qualification: State membership and mandate, announced/signed/ratified/operative/completed status, official source and date, partner agency, causal limit, trade-off, alternative or residual implementation risk.

Counter-position / limit: A doctrine label, summit declaration, signed document, project announcement, military exercise, trade change or diplomatic statement cannot alone establish binding obligation, operational delivery or strategic outcome; test legal character, implementation, partner response, alternatives and evidence status.

Qualified conclusion: The proposition is largely correct but needs evidencing on both limbs, so the assessment must establish the shared grievance, evidence internal divergence with concrete interest conflicts, separate agenda-setting from institutional power, and end with a qualified verdict rather than a slogan.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For 20 marks, spend one-sixth of the time decoding the directive and drawing level -> interest -> instrument -> implementation -> outcome -> alternative; state a thesis; write four to seven claim -> named evidence -> analysis -> qualification points; reserve the final minute for source, date, membership, operative status, partner agency, causation, escalation and residual risk.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, explains strategy and implementation rather than listing visits or groupings, uses named India-centric evidence and preserves institutional, status, level, causal and geopolitical distinctions.

How to improve this answer: For “Assess the proposition that the Global South is unified by grievance rather than by...”, replace the weakest event-list point with one named actor, interest, instrument, implementation bottleneck, measurable outcome, alternative and source-date-status qualification.