What this owner must now support

- Role of the Moderates in preparing a base for the wider freedom movement

The table integrates the examinable demand and paper metadata. It does not turn an unkeyed objective question into a solved answer, and it does not claim that lexical presence alone proves full conceptual sufficiency.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2021 GS-I

Demand: To what extent did the role of the Moderates prepare a base for the wider freedom movement? Comment.
(15 marks, 250 words)

Status: model-solution

Model solution / safe handling: The Moderates unified provincial political work through an annual Congress, trained public opinion through press and council debate, created the economic indictment of colonialism through the drain theory, defended civil liberties and normalised representative demands. Their narrow social base and faith in British justice limited immediate gains, but later nationalists inherited their organisation, leaders and critique. They prepared a base intellectually and institutionally even where they failed to transfer power.

Demand decoding: The directive answer requires a direct position on “PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2021 GS-I”, coverage of every clause, chronological-causal analysis, named evidence, a counter-position and a qualified verdict.

Detailed examiner-grade model status: The solved analysis above is the executable content base. Preserve its exact chronology, named evidence, causal logic, counter-position and qualification.

Executable exam-length answer / compression plan: For a 15-mark answer, open with a two-sentence thesis; organise five named Acts, events, organisations, regions, primary records or scholarly positions as claim -> evidence -> analysis -> qualification; reserve the final lines for a graded conclusion.

Why this earns marks: The answer obeys the directive, distinguishes dates and policy stages, connects evidence to mechanism, recognises regional/social variation and avoids teleology or hero worship.

How to improve this answer: For “PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2021 GS-I”, replace the weakest generalisation with one additional named primary/official record or attributed scholarly interpretation and state exactly what it cannot prove.

Question: How did pre-Congress political associations prepare the ground for the Indian National Congress? Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Provincial associations created leaders, publicity networks and a constitutional repertoire that the Congress scaled into an all-India platform.

Evidence spine:

- The British Indian Association was formed in Bengal in 1851 and represented an early elite form of organised political articulation.
- Dadabhai Naoroji founded the East India Association in London in 1866 to place Indian questions before British public opinion.
- The Poona Sarvajanik Sabha emerged in 1870 as an important western-India forum claiming to represent public interests.
- Surendranath Banerjee and Ananda Mohan Bose founded the Indian Association in 1876 and pursued broader political mobilisation.
- The Madras Mahajan Sabha became a major pre-Congress political association in the Madras Presidency and helped develop regional public work before the all-India platform.
- The Bombay Presidency Association became an important western-India pre-Congress body within the network that preceded the national organisation.
- The first Indian National Congress session met at Bombay in December 1885 with seventy-two delegates.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Provincial associations created leaders, publicity networks and a constitutional repertoire that the Congress scaled into an all-India platform.

Question: Why is the safety-valve theory an inadequate explanation of the foundation of the Congress? Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Hume helped with organisation, but accumulated Indian political work and common colonial grievances supplied the movement's causation and historical direction.

Evidence spine:

- The first Indian National Congress session met at Bombay in December 1885 with seventy-two delegates.
- A.O. Hume helped organise the Congress, but his role does not make Indian nationalism a colonial creation.
- W.C. Bonnerjee presided over the first Indian National Congress session at Bombay in 1885.
- The safety-valve explanation is a disputed interpretation; the Congress arose from accumulated Indian associations, grievances and national consciousness.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Hume helped with organisation, but accumulated Indian political work and common colonial grievances supplied the movement's causation and historical direction.

Question: Explain how Moderate economic nationalism converted poverty into a political indictment of colonial rule. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The drain and linked critiques showed poverty as a policy-produced feature of empire rather than an accidental social condition.

Evidence spine:

- Dadabhai Naoroji's drain critique linked Indian poverty to the unrequited transfer of resources under colonial rule.
- Moderate economic criticism joined the drain, deindustrialisation, land-revenue pressure, high military expenditure and discriminatory trade and service policies.
- Moderates demanded greater Indian entry into higher administration and simultaneous civil-service examinations in India and Britain.
- Moderates demanded enlarged councils, an elective principle, budget scrutiny and greater Indian representation.
- Annual sessions, newspapers and council speeches created a shared all-India grievance vocabulary and trained a national political class.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: The drain and linked critiques showed poverty as a policy-produced feature of empire rather than an accidental social condition.
