ADVANCED OBJECTION

- Tattvārthasūtra supplies a common doctrinal grammar without erasing Śvetāmbara-Digambara differences.
- This matters methodologically: cite the text as a shared systematic anchor, but do not infer complete uniformity of canon or practice.
- Tirthaṅkaras are perfected teachers rather than creators, so Jaina religious authority remains compatible with an uncreated cosmos.
- The deeper philosophical architecture is reciprocal.

COMPARATIVE NUANCE

- Metaphysical many-sidedness explains epistemic partiality
- epistemic discipline supports ethical non-violence in thought
- ethical purification removes the karmic obstruction that prevents complete knowledge.
- Treating these as unrelated chapters misses the system's unity.

OPTIONAL STATUS — This optional depth is unnecessary for a competent core answer; use it only for added nuance after the complete core has been written.
