First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918) - Learner-v2 Complete Learning Session

SOURCE, PROGRESSION AND CURRENT-LINKAGE AUDIT

- Repository owners queried: Basic and Advanced Markdown for this topic, the master chronology, syllabus map and linked Modern History owners.
- OCR book evidence queried: OCR checks use Bipan Chandra's India's Struggle for Independence, printed pages 141-152, and Modern India, approximately pages 254-258, for the two Leagues, repression, Lucknow and the transition. Sekhar Bandyopadhyay, especially pages 286-288 and the adjacent Home Rule discussion, supplies wartime-economic and regional qualification. The Congress-League Scheme transcription supplies the Pact's exact provisions.
- Qdrant: not used; Markdown plus searchable local PDFs were sufficient.
- PYQ integrity: UPSC Prelims 2018 Q79 on the All India Home Rule League's 1920 renaming as Swarajya Sabha is retained as a routed demand card. The official answer key is unavailable locally, so no answer letter is inferred.
- Bounded live linkage: A 2026 Commonwealth War Graves Commission report records that 9,909 previously uncommemorated Indian Army servicemen were added to its records after the Punjab Registers project. This is used only as a public-memory bridge; it does not quantify wartime extraction or prove a nationalist causal claim.
- Fact/inference rule: historical claims are source-backed; analytical judgements are explicitly framed as interpretation and do not invent figures.

SESSION 1 - FOUNDATION - WAR, CHRONOLOGY AND THE TRANSITION PROBLEM

DEFINITION / WHAT THIS IS CALLED

Plain-language definition: FOUNDATION - War, chronology and the transition problem comprises FOUNDATION, War and chronology as its core connected dimensions.

Technical definition: Technically, FOUNDATION - War, chronology and the transition problem is analysed by relating FOUNDATION to War, then testing the relationship through chronology and the transition problem.

ANSWER-GRABBING OPENING - WRITE/ADAPT IN THE EXAM

FOUNDATION - War, chronology and the transition problem comprises FOUNDATION, War and chronology as its core connected dimensions.

MUST-WRITE KEYWORDS

- FOUNDATION
- War
- chronology
- the transition problem
- Precise definition
- Topic boundary

How to use them: Frame the answer through FOUNDATION; define War, connect chronology with the transition problem to explain the mechanism, and use Precise definition for the decisive comparison or qualification.

VISUAL FIRST

WAR, CHRONOLOGY AND THE TRANSITION PROBLEM
JUN 1914 TILAK RELEASE -> DEC 1915 READMISSION AUTHORISED
APR-SEP 1916 TWO LEAGUES -> DEC 1916 LUCKNOW
1917 SECURITY / INTERNMENT -> 20 AUG DECLARATION
JUL-LATE 1918 REFORM DIVISION + TILAK ABROAD -> DECLINE

The visual fixes this subtopic's chronology, mechanism or comparison before the evidence.

CONCEPT DEFINITIONS

- Precise definition: A transition sequence linking imperial war, revived constitutional agitation, negotiated unity and an incomplete official response.
- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

The period 1914-18 links wartime loyalty and extraction to Home Rule, Lucknow unity, a bounded imperial promise and the threshold of Gandhian politics.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Tilak's June 1914 release and Congress's December 1915 readmission decision precede the two separate Leagues of 1916.
- Lucknow in December 1916 publicly consummates Congress reunion and Congress-League bargaining.
- Tilak's 1916-17 security and exclusion proceedings and the June 1917 internments precede the Montagu Declaration.
- The July 1918 reform proposals and Tilak's late-1918 departure for England help explain organisational decline.

EXAMINER CAUTION

- Do not read every event as an inevitable step toward Gandhi or independence.

EXAM LINK

- Prelims: Do not read every event as an inevitable step toward Gandhi or independence.

- Mains: Use a chronological thesis that identifies both continuity and changing political scale.

MINI RECAP

- Core claim: The period 1914-18 links wartime loyalty and extraction to Home Rule, Lucknow unity, a bounded imperial promise and the threshold of Gandhian politics.
- Use: Use a chronological thesis that identifies both continuity and changing political scale.

Technical definition: Mains: Build the mechanism as contribution plus expectation minus adequate reward.

- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

Indian wartime support created a claim to constitutional reciprocity, while coercive extraction made loyalism increasingly difficult to sustain.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The Raj drew soldiers, money and materials from India for an imperial war.
- Recruitment pressure, taxes, war loans, shortages and price rises distributed costs unequally.
- Selected industries and traders also gained from import disruption and wartime demand.
- Nationalist support was political and conditional rather than proof of permanent consent.

CONCEPT DEFINITIONS

- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

Wartime claims about democracy and liberty supplied nationalists with a language for exposing the contradiction of colonial government.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The ideological claim did not by itself create agitation; material pressure and organisation mattered.
- Self-government became a more legitimate public demand during the imperial crisis.
- The war internationalised political vocabulary without granting self-determination to India.

EXAMINER CAUTION

- Do not treat European wartime rhetoric as a binding promise already made to India.

CORE EXPLANATION

Home Rule's organisational novelty lay in continuous political education through print, speech, local branches and repeat contact.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Pamphlets simplified constitutional demands for wider audiences.
- Newspapers and lecture tours sustained attention between annual Congress meetings.
- Libraries, discussion circles and branches created local workers, though reach remained socially uneven.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Tilak faced security proceedings in 1916 and later exclusion from Punjab and Delhi.
- Students faced restrictions, and Besant was subjected to territorial restraint in November 1916.
- Annie Besant, B.P. Wadia and George Arundale were interned in June 1917.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Ambica Charan Mazumdar presided over the Congress session.
- Tilak and Besant promoted rapprochement, while Jinnah helped bridge the two organisations.

- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

The Lucknow Pact sought wider representation and Indian authority through a common programme that increased pressure on the colonial state.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The Scheme proposed four-fifths elected members in provincial and Imperial legislatures.
- It proposed a 150-member Imperial Legislative Council and one-third Muslim representation among elected Indian members.
- It sought provincial fiscal authority, greater Indian participation in the executive and reduced Secretary-of-State control.
- The agreement made inter-organisational bargaining more credible during wartime.

RULE -> electorate, weightage and veto are different mechanisms

The visual fixes this subtopic's chronology, mechanism or comparison before the evidence.

CONCEPT DEFINITIONS

- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within First World War, the Home Rule League & the Lucknow Pact (1914-1918); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

The Pact organised Muslim representation through separate electorates and negotiated provincial weightage, making community a constitutional category.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Separate electorates had already been introduced under the 1909 reforms.
- Weightage concerns the share of representation, not the identity of the electorate.
- The verified shares were Punjab 50%, Bengal 40%, Bombay one-third, United Provinces 30%, Bihar 25%, and 15% each in the Central Provinces and Madras.
- At the centre, one-third of elected Indian members were to be Muslim.

CORE EXPLANATION

Lucknow concentrated nationalist pressure while embedding a communal representation bargain whose tactical gain and long-term risk must be held together.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The common programme demonstrated that Congress-League cooperation was possible.
- The Pact also recognised political communities through negotiated representation.
- A measure affecting a community could be blocked when three-fourths of that community's council members opposed it.
- Later communal outcomes were not inevitable, but the institutional precedent mattered.

CORE EXPLANATION

Home Rule declined as a separate movement but transferred cadres, methods and expectations into the Gandhian phase; its wartime setting also survives in public memory.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- Moderate withdrawal after Besant's release and the reform promise narrowed the agitation.
- Divisions over the July 1918 reform proposals and Besant's vacillation weakened unity.
- Tilak's late-1918 departure for England deprived the movement of a principal organiser.
- Branch work and political education later remained useful to Congress mobilisation under Gandhi.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 1 - 2018 Prelims GS-I Q79

Demand: Identify the organisation that changed its name to Swarajya Sabha in 1920.

Status: routed-key-unavailable

Model solution / safe handling: The official question source records the All India Home Rule League among the options and the repository routing records its renaming as Swarajya Sabha. Because the official key is unavailable locally, no answer letter is published or inferred.

PYQ DEMAND CARD 2 - 2024 GS-I Q12

Demand: How far is it correct to say that the First World War was fought essentially for the preservation of the balance of power?

Status: cross-cutting-world-history-model

Model solution / safe handling: Treat balance of power as a major structural cause, then qualify it through alliance commitments, imperial rivalry, nationalism, arms competition and the July Crisis. Use it only to frame India's imperial war setting, not as a direct Home Rule question.

ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS

Question: Why did the First World War convert nationalist loyalty into a demand for constitutional reward? Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Wartime support created an expectation of political reciprocity, while material pressure and imperial democratic rhetoric made continued subjection harder to defend.

Evidence spine:

- At the First World War's outbreak, leading Indian nationalists supported Britain while expecting meaningful constitutional advance.
- India supplied soldiers, money and materials, while taxation, war loans, recruitment pressure, shortages and rising prices widened hardship, even as selected industries and traders gained wartime opportunities.
- British wartime language about liberty and democracy sharpened the contradiction between imperial claims and colonial subjection.
- The declaration of 20 August 1917 promised increasing Indian association and gradual responsible government, not immediate transfer.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Wartime support created an expectation of political reciprocity, while material pressure and imperial democratic rhetoric made continued subjection harder to defend.

ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS

Question: Distinguish Tilak's and Annie Besant's Home Rule Leagues. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: They shared the demand for self-government and methods of political education, but remained separate bodies with different launch dates, territorial fields and organisational networks.

Evidence spine:

- Tilak launched his Home Rule League in April 1916, working mainly in Maharashtra excluding Bombay city, Karnataka, the Central Provinces and Berar.
- Annie Besant launched a separate Home Rule League in September 1916 from Adyar, with activity across most areas outside Tilak's zone, including Bombay city.
- George Arundale, B.P. Wadia and C.P. Ramaswami Aiyar were prominent associates; New India and Commonweal supported Besant's propaganda.
- The Leagues demanded self-government within the British Empire on the Home Rule model, not immediate complete independence.
- Branches, lectures, pamphlets, newspapers, libraries and political classes made agitation continuous beyond annual Congress sessions.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: They shared the demand for self-government and methods of political education, but remained separate bodies with different launch dates, territorial fields and organisational networks.

ORIGINAL MAINS 3 - 15 MARKS

Question: Assess the Home Rule movement as an organisational bridge to Gandhian mass politics. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The Leagues normalised continuous propaganda, branches and local activism through mainly educated and professional leadership, with uneven rural penetration; their demand remained narrower than later satyagraha.

Evidence spine:

- Tilak launched his Home Rule League in April 1916, working mainly in Maharashtra excluding Bombay city, Karnataka, the Central Provinces and Berar.
- Annie Besant launched a separate Home Rule League in September 1916 from Adyar, with activity across most areas outside Tilak's zone, including Bombay city.
- The Leagues demanded self-government within the British Empire on the Home Rule model, not immediate complete independence.
- Branches, lectures, pamphlets, newspapers, libraries and political classes made agitation continuous beyond annual Congress sessions.
- Tilak faced security proceedings and territorial exclusion, students faced restrictions, and Annie Besant, B.P. Wadia and George Arundale were interned in June 1917, widening the civil-liberty issue.
- In 1918 moderate withdrawal, divisions over reform proposals, Besant's vacillation and Tilak's departure for England weakened the Leagues; Gandhi subsequently inherited parts of their political network.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: The Leagues normalised continuous propaganda, branches and local activism through mainly educated and professional leadership, with uneven rural penetration; their demand remained narrower than later satyagraha.

ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS

Question: Why is the Lucknow Session of 1916 described as an achievement of double unity? Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: Lucknow repaired the Congress split and enabled a joint Congress-League scheme, but its unity depended on a contested communal-representation bargain.

Evidence spine:

- Congress authorised readmission of the Extremist current in December 1915; the Lucknow Congress of December 1916 publicly consummated reunion.
- Under Congress president Ambica Charan Mazumdar, Lucknow produced Congress reunion and a Congress-League agreement shaped by leaders including Tilak, Besant and Jinnah, despite Malaviya's opposition.
- The Scheme proposed four-fifths elected legislatures, a 150-member Imperial Legislative Council, greater Indian control, provincial fiscal authority and increased Indianisation of the executive.
- Congress accepted separate electorates for Muslims at Lucknow; the device had already entered statute through the 1909 reforms.
- The Pact fixed Muslim shares at Punjab 50%, Bengal 40%, Bombay one-third, United Provinces 30%, Bihar 25%, and Central Provinces and Madras 15% each; one-third of elected Indian central members were to be Muslim.
- The Pact achieved real cooperation while making religious community an institutional unit of bargaining and protecting a community when three-fourths of its members opposed a measure affecting it.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Lucknow repaired the Congress split and enabled a joint Congress-League scheme, but its unity depended on a contested communal-representation bargain.

ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS

Question: Critically examine the Lucknow Pact as both a nationalist advance and a constitutional contradiction. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: The Pact concentrated anti-colonial bargaining power through a common programme, while separate electorates and negotiated weightage institutionalised community as the medium of representation.

Question: Trace the sequence from wartime mobilisation to the Montagu Declaration and the transition toward Gandhian politics. Answer in about 300 words.

1. Snapshot & core idea

Deeper - Home Rule as the organisational bridge.

- FACT: India's Struggle for Independence treats the Home Rule agitation as a bridge between the earlier elite politics of petitions and the later mass politics of Gandhi: it widened nationalist discussion through branches, lectures, pamphlets and local leadership.
- FACT: Tilak's politics after release from Mandalay emphasised a disciplined constitutional agitation for Swaraj, not a return to secret revolutionary action.
- FACT: Besant's Theosophical and journalistic networks helped connect English-educated groups, students, professionals and provincial activists to an all-India demand for Home Rule.
- ANALYSIS: The movement did not yet mobilise peasants and workers on the scale of Non-Cooperation, but it created a public mood in which self-government became a normal political demand.

Deeper - unity was strategic, not friction-free.

- FACT: The Lucknow Congress allowed the re-entry of Tilak and his followers, ending the damaging Moderate-Extremist split of Surat.
- FACT: Congress and the Muslim League agreed on a joint constitutional scheme, with Congress accepting separate electorates and weightage for Muslims in certain provinces.
- ANALYSIS: The Pact demonstrated tactical Congress-League unity against colonial rule, but it also strengthened representation by religious community. Its later effects are disputed: avoid a teleological claim that the 1916 bargain made Partition inevitable.
- FACT: The Montagu Declaration followed wartime pressure and agitation; it promised increasing Indian association in administration and gradual responsible government, not immediate transfer of power.

2. Key classification / data

Dimension	Advanced understanding
FACT: War context	Indian loyalty, imperial military needs and economic sacrifices created a claim for political reward

FACT: Repression effect	Besant's internment in June 1917 made Home Rule a wider civil-liberty issue
FACT: Congress unity	Lucknow repaired the Surat split and brought Extremists back into Congress legitimacy
FACT: Congress-League Pact	Joint reform demand plus separate electorates; unity carried a communal concession
ANALYSIS: Historical role	Transitional movement: more popular than Moderatism, less mass-based than Gandhian satyagraha
