Gandhi's Rise: Champaran, Kheda, Ahmedabad; Rowlatt & Jallianwala Bagh (1917-1919) - Learner-v2 Complete Learning Session

SOURCE, PROGRESSION AND CURRENT-LINKAGE AUDIT

- Repository owners queried: Basic and Advanced Markdown for this topic, the master chronology, syllabus map and linked Modern History owners.
- OCR book evidence queried: OCR checks use Bipan Chandra's India's Struggle for Independence around the Champaran, Ahmedabad, Kheda and Rowlatt chapters and Modern India for the 1919 transition. Sekhar Bandyopadhyay supplies wartime distress, the Ahmedabad relationship and wider political qualification. Gandhi's autobiography, the Rowlatt proceedings, Hunter report and Congress Punjab Inquiry are retained as primary or official documentary anchors.
- Qdrant: not used; Markdown plus searchable local PDFs were sufficient.
- PYQ integrity: Routed demands include 2018 Prelims Q69 on Champaran, 2019 Prelims Q14 on Gandhi-linked events, 2020 Prelims Q14 on Gandhism and Marxism, 2018 GS-I on Gandhi's thought, 2019 GS-I on many voices in the Gandhian phase and 2023 GS-I on Gandhi and Tagore. Missing Prelims keys are not inferred.
- Bounded live linkage: The Prime Minister's 13 April 2026 official homage is retained only as a public-memory bridge for Jallianwala Bagh, liberty, justice and dignity. It does not replace historical evidence or supply disputed casualty totals.
- Fact/inference rule: historical claims are source-backed; analytical judgements are explicitly framed as interpretation and do not invent figures.

- Tinkathia required indigo cultivation on 3/20 of a tenant's holding.
- Planter demands around release from indigo obligations intensified the dispute.

- Topic boundary: Apply this definition only within Gandhi's Rise: Champaran, Kheda, Ahmedabad; Rowlatt & Jallianwala Bagh (1917-1919); preserve the named actors, date and institutional setting.

CORE EXPLANATION

Gandhi's first fast in an Indian struggle sought to reinforce worker discipline and move a stalled dispute toward arbitration.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The strike depended on a pledge and continued non-violent discipline.
- The strike lasted twenty-one days and Gandhi's fast lasted three days.
- The fast placed moral pressure on a relationship in which Gandhi knew leading mill owners.
- Arbitration supplied an institutional route out of confrontation.
- Bipan's 35% and Sekhar's 27.5% outcome figures are retained as a source discrepancy.

EXAMINER CAUTION

- A fast can create moral coercion; do not describe it as a neutral substitute for bargaining.

EXAM LINK

CORE EXPLANATION

Kheda applied satyagraha to the colonial state's revenue demand when cultivators claimed crop conditions justified suspension or remission.

EVIDENCE AND MECHANISM

- The demand invoked the rule permitting suspension when assessed produce was four annas or less.
- Vallabhbhai Patel and Indulal Yagnik helped organise villages and sustain communication.
- The pledge bound better-off cultivators to protect poorer neighbours from selective collection.

ORIGINAL MAINS 1 - 10 MARKS

Question: Why was Champaran a methodological turning point in India's national movement? Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Champaran joined local peasant initiative, public inquiry, principled law-breaking and negotiated redress, giving Gandhi Indian credibility without yet becoming an all-India anti-state campaign.

Evidence spine:

- Raj Kumar Shukla persistently brought Gandhi to Champaran in 1917, showing that local agency preceded national intervention.
- Champaran cultivators challenged tinkathia, which required indigo cultivation on 3/20 of a tenant's holding, and planter demands associated with release from that system.
- Gandhi's team recorded about 8,000 cultivator statements; an official inquiry led to a 25% refund of illegal dues, while later abolition of tinkathia must be kept distinct from that refund.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Champaran joined local peasant initiative, public inquiry, principled law-breaking and negotiated redress, giving Gandhi Indian credibility without yet becoming an all-India anti-state campaign.

ORIGINAL MAINS 2 - 10 MARKS

Question: Compare Gandhi's roles in the Ahmedabad and Kheda struggles of 1918. Answer in about 150 words.

Model thesis: Ahmedabad tested mediation, worker discipline, fasting and arbitration in an industrial dispute; Kheda tested organised revenue refusal and regional cadre leadership against the state.

Evidence spine:

- In the 1918 Ahmedabad plague-bonus dispute, workers initially sought 50%, owners offered 20%, and Gandhi supported a 35% wage increase.
- Anasuya Sarabhai supported the workers, while her brother Ambalal Sarabhai was a leading mill owner and Gandhi's associate.
- After a twenty-one-day strike, Gandhi's three-day fast, his first in an Indian struggle, reinforced the pledge and pressed the dispute toward arbitration; sources differ on the final percentage outcome.
- The 1918 Kheda campaign sought suspension of land revenue where assessed produce was four annas or less, one-quarter of normal, under the government's own rules.
- Vallabhbhai Patel and Indulal Yagnik helped organise Kheda, showing that Gandhian action depended on local and regional leadership.

- Kheda used a collective pledge so better-off cultivators would protect poorer neighbours from selective collection; attachment risks and a limited official retreat made the outcome partial rather than total.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: Ahmedabad tested mediation, worker discipline, fasting and arbitration in an industrial dispute; Kheda tested organised revenue refusal and regional cadre leadership against the state.

Question: Champaran, Ahmedabad and Kheda were laboratories of satyagraha rather than repetitions of one formula. Discuss. Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The three campaigns shared disciplined non-violence and fact-based negotiation but differed in constituency, grievance, opponent, tactic and settlement, allowing Gandhi to test a transferable repertoire.

- Raj Kumar Shukla persistently brought Gandhi to Champaran in 1917, showing that local agency preceded national intervention.

ORIGINAL MAINS 4 - 15 MARKS

Question: How did the Rowlatt agitation reveal both the reach and the limits of Gandhi's early all-India leadership? Answer in about 250 words.

Model thesis: The Satyagraha Sabha and hartal displayed nationwide moral appeal, while date confusion, violence and withdrawal showed that popularity had outrun organisational discipline.

Evidence spine:

- Two Rowlatt Bills were introduced, but only one became the Anarchical and Revolutionary Crimes Act, 1919, on 18 March; it continued exceptional procedures and detention powers into peace.
- Gandhi founded the Satyagraha Sabha in Bombay in February 1919, whose members pledged civil disobedience of the Rowlatt law.
- The all-India hartal was observed on 6 April 1919; Delhi acted on the earlier date of 30 March, revealing communication and control problems.

- Gandhi suspended the agitation on 18 April after violence exposed inadequate discipline and later described the premature call for mass civil disobedience as a Himalayan miscalculation.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

ORIGINAL MAINS 5 - 20 MARKS

Question: Analyse the political significance of Jallianwala Bagh and the Punjab martial-law regime without reducing nationalism to one event. Answer in about 300 words.

Model thesis: The massacre, humiliating martial-law measures, contested inquiries and renunciation of honours destroyed confidence in imperial justice, but operated alongside wartime pressure, Rowlatt and Khilafat.

Evidence spine:

- On 10 April Saifuddin Kitchlew and Satyapal were arrested and removed from Amritsar; firing on protestors and attacks on Europeans and property followed within a deeper wartime coercive setting.
- On 13 April 1919 Brigadier-General Reginald Dyer ordered troops to fire without warning or an order to disperse on an unarmed gathering inside Jallianwala Bagh; he was not Lieutenant-Governor Michael O'Dwyer.
- Formal martial law followed the massacre and included humiliating punishments such as the crawling order in a specific Amritsar lane; the Hunter Committee and Congress Punjab Inquiry diverged sharply.
- Tagore renounced his knighthood in 1919 and Gandhi returned the Kaiser-i-Hind medal in 1920; at the December 1919 Amritsar Congress Gandhi still treated the reforms as a workable basis, so the later turn to Non-Cooperation must remain multi-causal.

Balance: Distinguish intention from outcome, identify regional or social variation, and avoid treating a formal measure as complete implementation.

Conclusion: The massacre, humiliating martial-law measures, contested inquiries and renunciation of honours destroyed confidence in imperial justice, but operated alongside wartime pressure, Rowlatt and Khilafat.
