- 1886 AITCHISON → classification and Indianisation remain contested.
- FORT WILLIAM → language and administrative training in India

STAGE 03 THE DISTRICT STATE CONCENTRATED AUTHORITY

COERCIVE HIERARCHY UNDER EXECUTIVE INFLUENCE

→ THANA / DAROGA → local surveillance and enforcement

MECHANISM

- COURTS → legality around the same district-centred state.
- GOVERNMENT OF INDIA / PROVINCE → policy and supervision

STRONGER EUROPEAN COMMAND, ARTILLERY CONTROL AND FRAGMENTED RECRUITMENT

MECHANISM

- BEFORE 1857 → Indian sepoy mass under European officers enables conquest
- 1857 LESSON → common military solidarity is treated as a regime threat

LOYALTY ENGINEERED THROUGH DIFFERENCE

→ RACIAL CLAIM → fit to fight but allegedly unfit to command

MECHANISM

- RULE → teach the category as ideology, never biological truth.
- COLONIAL CLASSIFICATION → selected groups labelled naturally martial

LEGACY QUESTION

LEGACY QUESTION → executive control versus public accountability.

MECHANISM

- CORNWALLIS → thana and daroga structure under district authority

EUROPEANS RESIST EQUAL JURISDICTION

ILBERT BILL 1883

FORMAL CLAIM → uniform law, evidence and procedure

PRACTICAL ORDER → executive dominance and political offences

RACIAL PRIVILEGE → Europeans resist equal jurisdiction

ILBERT BILL 1883 → collision makes the hierarchy visible

CORE CLAIM

- FORMAL CLAIM → uniform law, evidence and procedure
- PRACTICAL ORDER → executive dominance and political offences
- RACIAL PRIVILEGE → Europeans resist equal jurisdiction

MECHANISM

- ILBERT BILL 1883 → collision makes the hierarchy visible
- VERDICT → legalistic administration was not liberal citizenship.
- CLOSE DISTINCTION: The proclaimed rule of law coexisted with racial bars, executive discretion and unequal access

CONSEQUENCE / LIMIT

- Cornwallis reforms, the daroga police and the Ilbert Bill controversy require separate contexts.

SUBORDINATE ENRICHMENT — ONLY AFTER THE COMPLETE CORE

OPTIONAL ADVANCED ENRICHMENT

BRITISH RULE IN INDIA WAS MAINTAINED THROUGH A SMALL

LARGE INDIAN SEPOY ARMY UNDER EUROPEAN COMMAND, A DISTRICT-CENTRED

CORNWALLIS PROFESSIONALISED THE COVENANTED CIVIL SERVICE THROUGH HIGH SALARIES

BUT ALSO HARDENED RACIAL EXCLUSION BY RESERVING SUPERIOR POSTS

THE CIVIL SERVANT WAS COLLECTOR, MAGISTRATE, ADMINISTRATOR AND LOCAL

THE 1853 COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION ANNOUNCED MERIT, BUT EXAMINATION IN

PREPARATION AND AGE RULES KEPT THE SERVICE SOCIALLY AND

OPTIONAL SOURCE DEPTH

- British rule in India was maintained through a small but powerful European civil service, a
- large Indian sepoy army under European command, a district-centred police system and codified courts.
- Cornwallis professionalised the covenanted civil service through high salaries and anti-corruption measures,
- but also hardened racial exclusion by reserving superior posts for Europeans.

ADVANCED DEBATE

- The civil servant was collector, magistrate, administrator and local face of the state; the district became the basic unit of colonial power.
- The 1853 competitive examination announced merit, but examination in London, expensive
- preparation and age rules kept the service socially and racially exclusive.
- CAUTION: The Indianisation demand became a political issue because Indians saw exclusion

LEGACY / NUANCE

- from administration as both racial humiliation and denial of representative governance.
- The colonial army made conquest possible and suppressed rebellion
- after 1857, British policy increased the European ratio and divided recruitment by caste, religion and region.
- The police system created under Cornwallis and later codified by the Police

OPTIONAL STATUS

This optional depth is unnecessary for a competent core answer; use it only for added nuance after the complete core has been written.
