E

EXTRA SUBORDINATE ENRICHMENT — ONLY AFTER THE COMPLETE CORE

OPTIONAL ADVANCED ENRICHMENT · OLD NCERT ITSELF ENDS BY CALLING INDUSTRIALISATION A SOURCE · EVILS . · THEREFORE THE PHRASE "MIXED BLESSING" IS ENTIRELY LEGITIMATE WHEN · OLD NCERT EXPLICITLY CONNECTS INDUSTRIALISATION WITH THE SEARCH FOR · IT ALSO NOTES THAT INDUSTRIAL COUNTRIES SUBORDINATED THE ECONOMIES · THIS IS THE CORRECT BRIDGE TO LATE-19TH-CENTURY IMPERIALISM · INDUSTRY DID NOT

OPTIONAL SOURCE DEPTH
- Old NCERT itself ends by calling industrialisation a source of both benefits and hardships / evils .
- CAUTION: Therefore the phrase "mixed blessing" is entirely legitimate when supported with evidence.
- Old NCERT explicitly connects industrialisation with the search for markets , raw materials , and eventually imperial expansion .
- It also notes that industrial countries subordinated the economies of weaker regions to their own interests.

ADVANCED DEBATE
- CAUTION: This is the correct bridge to late-19th-century imperialism: industry did not
- mechanically create empire, but it greatly intensified the pressure for empire .
- CAUTION: For India-specific consequences such as deindustrialisation, drain and colonial market
- subordination, cross-link rather than repeat: Modern-Indian-History/basic/07 Economic-Impact-of-British-Rule.md and Modern-Indian-History/advanced/07 Economic-Impact-of-British-Rule.md.

LEGACY / NUANCE
- Enclosure movement, colonies, coal, iron, shipping and capital formation are central to the English lead.
- Early labour reform included Factory Acts and the eventual legalisation of trade unions.
- Laissez-faire is associated with the early capitalist belief in minimum state interference.
- Industrialisation strengthened the pressure for tariff policy, market protection and imperial competition.

OPTIONAL STATUS — This optional depth is unnecessary for a competent core answer; use it only for added nuance after the complete core has been written.
