Introduction	□ Introduced in the Lok Sabha on 16 April 2026 (with the Delimitation Bill, 2026 and the UT Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2026); the Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill, 2026 proposed amending Art 81 to raise the Lok Sabha ceiling from 550 to 850 (up to 815 States + 35 UTs) and letting Parliament fix the census basis for delimitation	□ An amendment Bill may be introduced in either House, needs no prior State consent, and — unlike a Money Bill — is not confined to the Lok Sabha
The division	□ Voted 17 April 2026: 298 for : 230 against, 528 present and voting	□ Art 368(2) demands two simultaneous limbs — a majority of the total membership of the House and two-thirds of the members present and voting
Limb 1	□ 298 exceeds a majority of the total membership (543 elected)	□ Satisfied — this is the same threshold an ordinary Bill or a confidence vote clears
Limb 2	□ Two-thirds of 528 present and voting ≈ 352; the Bill polled 298	□ Failed — the amendment fell here
Consequence	□ The Bill was defeated in the first House; it never reached the Rajya Sabha, and the linked ordinary Bills did not pass	□ Defeat in one House ends the amendment; there is no joint sitting to break an Art 368 deadlock, and dependent ordinary legislation falls with it

- Procedural discipline: initiated only in Parliament; each House separately (no joint sitting); President must assent — cannot withhold or return (24th Amendment, 1971).

- Worked example — the two limbs of the special majority, tested on the floor (Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill, 2026):

- Label first: this is a defeated Bill. It is evidence of how Art 368(2) operates, not law,

- not precedent and not a forecast. Full evidence unit: Parliament.md §7.4.

- Why this is the sharpest available illustration: it shows in one division that a governing majority is not an amending majority. The most common error in amendment answers is to treat "special majority" as a single number; the 2026 division separates the two limbs cleanly. It also shows that the entrenchment design works as intended: the Constitution's rigidity is supplied not by an elaborate convention (as in the USA) but by an arithmetic that ordinary politics rarely reaches.

INTRO & ORIGIN

□□ Limits on use: do not write that the House "rejected delimitation" (it rejected an amendment Bill), do not cite the 850 ceiling as law, do not project seat distributions, and do not treat the defeat as a precedent binding any future Parliament — a defeated Bill creates no legal consequence beyond its own failure. □□ On State ratification: the Bill failed in the Lok Sabha, so the ratification stage never arose and the House never had to decide the question. Whether the proposed changes would have engaged the representation-of-States limb of the Art 368 proviso is not settled — do not assert either that ratification was required or that it was not, absent an authoritative legislative or judicial resolution.

STATIC THEORY

- Basic-structure demands: □□ The doctrine is best defended as the guardian of constitutional identity, not judicial overreach: it does not forbid amendment, only the destruction of the Constitution's essential features.

- Limits demands: □□ Parliament's amending power is hemmed in on both sides — procedural discipline in its exercise and a substantive ceiling in its reach — so it is a limited constituent power under constitutional supremacy.

 2022 Q13 — amendment bill procedure & Presidential assent: special majority in each House, no joint sitting; the President must assent (24th Amendment) — no withholding or return.

Foundation learning layer: concepts → constitutional detail → UPSC application.

STATIC THEORY

- 2023 Q34 — amendments to overcome judicial interpretation: e.g. the 1st Amendment (1951) and 24th/25th Amendments were enacted to override judicial rulings on FR/property.

- Standard confusion pairs:

- Simple majority (outside Art 368) vs special majority (Art 368) vs special majority + ratification.

- State ratification by simple majority of half the States (India) vs three-fourths (USA).

- No joint sitting for amendment bills (unlike ordinary bills under Art 108).

- Amendment bill — President must assent; ordinary bill — President has options (assent/withhold/return).

MUST-KNOW FACTS

Do not state amendments can be initiated in State legislatures — they can be initiated only in Parliament (Art 368); States may only pass a resolution regarding creation/abolition of a legislative council. Do not state a joint sitting resolves an amendment-bill deadlock — there is no joint-sitting provision for amendment bills. Do not state States ratify by special majority or three-fourths — ratification is by simple majority of not less than half the State legislatures.

INTRO & ORIGIN

Do not state the President can withhold or return an amendment bill — the 24th Amendment (1971) made assent mandatory.

Foundation learning layer: concepts → constitutional detail → UPSC application.

V

Dimension 1 Do not state the President can withhold or return an amendment bill — the 24th Amendment (1971) made assent mandatory.	Dimension 2 Do not state the basic structure was laid down in Golak Nath — it was propounded in Kesavananda Bharati (1973); Golak Nath only held FR unamendable.
Dimension 3 Do not state all Ninth-Schedule laws are immune from review — laws added after 24 April 1973 are open to basic-structure review (I.R. Coelho 2007).	Dimension 4 Do not present the list of basic-structure elements as closed/exhaustive — it is illustrative and judicially evolving.

STATIC THEORY

- Do not state the basic structure was laid down in Golak Nath — it was propounded in _Kesavananda Bharati_ (1973); Golak Nath only held FR unamendable.

- Do not state all Ninth-Schedule laws are immune from review — laws added after 24 April 1973 are open to basic-structure review (I.R. Coelho 2007).

- Do not present the list of basic-structure elements as closed/exhaustive — it is illustrative and judicially evolving.

- Do not misstate the Kesavananda Bench strength — it was a 13-judge Bench.

- □□ Do not cite the Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill, 2026 as law, as a precedent or as a forecast. It is a defeated Bill (introduced 16 Apr 2026, defeated 17 Apr 2026, 298 : 230 of 528 present and voting). Permitted use: an illustration of the two limbs of Art 368(2) and of the fact that dependent ordinary Bills fall with a failed amendment; the 850 ceiling (up to 815 States + 35 UTs) may be cited only as that Bill's proposed Art 81 text. Prohibited: "the Lok Sabha ceiling is 850", "delimitation will use the 2011 census", any State-wise seat projection, any implementation year for the women's quota. □□ Do not assert whether the Bill did or did not engage the representation-of-States limb of the Art 368 proviso — the Bill failed in the Lok Sabha, so the ratification stage never arose and the question is unresolved.

- □/□□ 106th Amendment — three registers. Enacted 2023; commenced 16 April 2026 by notification under s.1(2) of the Act (the date may be written); the reservation is still not operational, because Art 334A(1) requires delimitation after publication of the relevant figures of the first census taken after that commencement (Census 2027). □□ Commenced ≠ operational. □□ Notified census conduct and reference dates are not the publication date of final figures, and the publication date is not notified — so no delimitation date and no effective date, year or election for the reservation may be stated. □□ Do not compute the fifteen-year end-date — quote "fifteen years from such commencement". Full unit: Parliament.md §"□ Current link" and §7.4.

Power and routes: Article 368 in Part XX confers constituent power to amend by addition, variation or repeal. Constitution-affecting changes authorised by provisions such as Articles 2-4, 11 and 169 may use simple-majority ordinary legislation outside Article 368; most amendments require the Article 368 special majority; federal subjects additionally require State ratification. Exact procedure: an amendment Bill may originate in either House and may be introduced by a minister or private member without prior Presidential recommendation. Each House separately must pass it by a majority of its total membership and two-thirds of members present and voting; there is no joint sitting. Where the proviso applies, not less than half the State legislatures ratify by simple majority. The President shall assent. Exact federal proviso: Articles 54-55, Articles 73 and 162, Article 241, Article 279A, Chapter IV of Part V, Chapter V of Part VI, Chapter I of Part XI, any Seventh Schedule List, representation of States in Parliament and Article 368 itself require the additional ratification route. Doctrine chronology: Shankari Prasad (1951), Sajjan Singh (decision 1964, reporting 1965), Golak Nath (1967), 24th Amendment (1971), Kesavananda Bharati (24 April 1973), Indira Nehru Gandhi (1975), Minerva Mills (1980), Waman Rao (decision 1980, reporting 1981), S.R. Bommai (1994), L. Chandra Kumar (1997), I.R. Coelho (2007) and NJAC (2015) must retain their distinct holdings. Basic structure: the list is illustrative and case-attributed, not a closed list announced wholesale in Kesavananda. Limited amending power and judicial review prevent constitutional destruction while allowing broad amendment. Ninth Schedule: Waman Rao fixes 24 April 1973 as the cut-off; I.R. Coelho subjects later insertions to basic-structure review through the impact on Fundamental Rights. Article 31B is not absolute immunity. Ordinary-law boundary: Anjum Kadari, 2024 INSC 831, rejects basic structure as a free-standing ground to invalidate ordinary legislation; the challenger must identify legislative incompetence, Part III or another constitutional defect. Current controls: the 131st Amendment Bill, 2026 was defeated and is not law or precedent. S.O. 1922(E), 16 April 2026 commenced the 106th Amendment, while Article 334A still requires the post-commencement census figures and delimitation before reservation becomes operational. Four-ledger/PYQ control: procedure, case holdings, dates, amendments, elements, criticisms, current instruments and every routed 2018-2026 demand were checked; unavailable historical keys remain labelled and no status is inferred.

GS-II Indian Polity

INTRO & ORIGIN

□ (1) No special body (Constitutional Convention as in USA). (2) States can't initiate amendments (except resolution for creating/abolishing legislative councils). (3) Most amendments by Parliament alone; state consent only from half (vs three-fourths in USA). (4) No time-frame for state ratification; silent on withdrawal of consent. (5) No joint sitting for deadlock. (6) Process resembles ordinary legislation (except special majority). (7) Provisions too sketchy → wide scope for judiciary. □ Yet praised: Nehru (flexibility for a "living, vital, organic people"), Ambedkar ("facile procedure"), K.C. Wheare ("variety… wise but rarely found"), Granville Austin ("ably conceived… merely diverse").

KEY DATA

Case / Amendment	Year	Ruling
□ Shankari Prasad	1951	Art 368 power includes amending FR; "law" in Art 13 = ordinary laws only, not constitutional amendments. (Challenge: 1st Amdt / property.)
□ Golak Nath	1967	Reversed — FR are "transcendental and immutable"; amendment is "law" under Art 13 → Parliament cannot abridge FR. (Challenge: 17th Amdt / 9th Schedule.)
□ 24th Amdt	1971	Parliament can abridge/take away FR under Art 368; such act not "law" under Art 13. Amended Art 13 & 368.
□ Kesavananda Bharati	1973	Overruled Golak Nath; upheld 24th Amdt (Parliament can amend FR) BUT propounded the "basic structure" doctrine — Art 368 constituent power cannot alter basic structure. 13-judge bench (largest ever).
□ Indira Nehru Gandhi	1975	Reaffirmed doctrine; struck down part of 39th Amdt (removing PM/Speaker election disputes from courts) as violating basic structure.
□ 42nd Amdt	1976	Declared no limitation on constituent power; no amendment questionable in any court.
□ Minerva Mills	1980	Struck that down — judicial review & limited amending power are basic features. "A limited amending power… cannot be converted into an unlimited one."
□ Waman Rao	1981	Ninth-Schedule amendments made after 24 April 1973 are open to basic-structure challenge. The judgment was delivered in 1980 and reported in 1981.

UPSC TRAPS

WRONG: Amendment can be initiated in state legislatures

CORRECT: only Parliament (Art 368).

WRONG: Deadlock resolved by joint sitting

CORRECT: no joint-sitting provision for amendment bills.

WRONG: States ratify by special majority

CORRECT: simple majority; only half (not 3/4 as in USA).

WRONG: President can withhold/return an amendment bill

CORRECT: must assent (24th Amdt).

WRONG: Simple-majority changes (new states, citizenship, 5th/6th Schedule) count as Art 368 amendments

CORRECT: they're outside Art 368.

WRONG: Kesavananda gave Parliament unlimited power

CORRECT: it limited it via basic structure.

WRONG: Basic structure was first laid down in Golak Nath

CORRECT: Kesavananda (1973); Golak Nath only made FR unamendable.
