Andhra State was created in 1953; the States Reorganisation Commission reported in 1955; the States Reorganisation Act and Seventh Amendment followed in 1956. NEWS TRIGGER

The MEA Annual Report 2024 describes India as expanding strategic autonomy, seeking multilateral reform, addressing Global South priorities and protecting security. Quad, BRICS and SCO participation illustrates issue-based cooperation across different memberships rather than membership in one military bloc. India hosted the third Voice of Global South Summit virtually on 17 August 2024 under the theme 'An Empowered Global South for a Sustainable Future'. Current examples must be dated and used as evidence of a theme, not as proof that every grouping shares identical purposes. Neighbourhood policy, Indo-Pacific cooperation, energy security, diaspora engagement and UN reform all test the same balance: interests, values, capacity and autonomy.

Question (exact): "'Communalism arises either due to power struggle or relative deprivation.' Argue by giving suitable illustrations." Model answer: Communalism is the political mobilisation of religious identity through antagonistic group claims. Power struggle explains it when elites use polarisation to consolidate votes, displace rivals or control institutions. Competitive religious appeals, hate campaigns and local contest over offices can convert ordinary difference into a zero-sum conflict. Relative deprivation explains mobilisation when a group perceives that its status, security or access has declined compared with another group or with its own expectations. Economic transition, uneven urbanisation and rumours about preferential treatment can supply such perceptions even when objective deprivation is mixed. The two mechanisms interact: political entrepreneurs frame employment, land or representation anxieties as religious injury. Communalism is therefore neither an automatic product of faith nor reducible to poverty. The remedy must combine impartial law enforcement, equal opportunity, civic education, local dialogue and accountability for incitement. Constitutional fraternity requires transforming distributive and political conflict into democratic bargaining rather than collective blame. Why this earns marks: It defines the phenomenon, argues both stated causes, explains interaction and supplies a constitutional remedy. How to improve this answer: Add one precisely recalled Indian illustration for each mechanism; do not treat every religious dispute as communalism. Compression guidance: Keep definition, two causal paragraphs, interaction, two remedies and verdict.

Question (exact): "Do you think that BIMSTEC is a parallel organisation like the SAARC? What are the similarities and dissimilarities between the two? How are Indian foreign policy objectives realized by forming this new organisation?" Model answer: BIMSTEC and SAARC are regional cooperation organisations, but BIMSTEC is not merely a parallel copy. Both seek functional cooperation, development and connectivity and include South Asian members. SAARC is South Asia-wide and includes Pakistan and Afghanistan; BIMSTEC links South and Southeast Asia around the Bay of Bengal and excludes Pakistan. BIMSTEC supports India's Neighbourhood First and Act East policies by connecting its eastern and north-eastern regions to Bay of Bengal economies. Sectoral cooperation can advance connectivity, trade, energy, disaster management, security and people-to-people ties. It also offers a forum less constrained by India-Pakistan deadlock. However, weak institutional capacity, delayed agreements, connectivity deficits and political instability limit delivery. BIMSTEC should complement rather than mechanically replace SAARC. Thus, its value lies in a distinct geography and functional agenda that widens India's strategic options while requiring stronger implementation. Why this earns marks: It answers similarity, dissimilarity and Indian objectives, then qualifies institutional performance. How to improve this answer: Add one dated summit or agreement only if accurately recalled; avoid saying BIMSTEC was created solely to isolate Pakistan. Compression guidance: Use two similarities, three differences, four objectives, two limits and verdict.

MAINS ANGLE

Question (exact): "Discuss the impact of post-liberal economy on ethnic identity and communalism." Model answer: Economic liberalisation widened mobility, markets, media and aspirational consumption. It also produced uneven gains across regions, occupations and social groups. These changes reshape ethnic identity and communalism through contradictory mechanisms. First, migration and urbanisation create mixed workplaces and networks that can weaken inherited boundaries. New middle classes, digital communication and national markets can support identities based on profession, consumption and citizenship. Second, uneven development intensifies relative deprivation. Competition over jobs, land, housing, welfare and political representation may be framed through regional, caste, linguistic or religious identities. Local elites can convert distributive conflict into ethnic or communal mobilisation. Third, commercial media and social platforms allow rapid cultural assertion but also profitable polarisation, rumours and targeted hate. Fourth, market-led displacement and insecure informal work can produce anxieties that exclusionary movements redirect against migrants or minorities. The outcome is not economically predetermined. Inclusive growth, portable welfare, fair urban governance, anti-discrimination, regional fiscal balance, credible policing and platform accountability mediate it. Therefore, the post-liberal economy simultaneously creates cross-cutting integration and new identity insecurity. Constitutional policy must distribute opportunity and provide democratic channels so that economic competition does not become collective blame. Why this earns marks: It presents both integrating and fragmenting mechanisms and identifies mediating institutions. How to improve this answer: Add one regional or urban example and explicitly separate ethnicity from communalism if space permits. Compression guidance: Retain four mechanisms, two counter-effects, policy mediation and the qualified verdict.

Question (exact): "Indian diaspora has scaled new heights in the West. Describe its economic and political benefits for India." Model answer: The Indian diaspora in Western countries benefits India economically through remittances, investment, entrepreneurship, technology and professional networks. It connects Indian firms and institutions to capital, skills, research ecosystems and markets and can support philanthropy and crisis relief. Politically, elected representatives, professionals and civic organisations can improve knowledge of India, support closer bilateral ties and create constituencies for cooperation in education, technology, security and mobility. Diaspora achievement also contributes to India's reputation and soft power. These benefits are neither automatic nor uniform. Diaspora communities have diverse political views, operate under host-country law and may face racism, visa insecurity or conflicts over homeland politics. India should therefore prioritise consular protection, skills and investment channels and respectful cultural engagement rather than expect political loyalty. The diaspora is best treated as a bridge of people and capability, not an instrument controlled by the Indian State. Why this earns marks: It covers both named dimensions, provides mechanisms and adds a realistic qualification. How to improve this answer: Include one precise sectoral example rather than an uncertain aggregate statistic. Compression guidance: Use five economic benefits, three political benefits, one caveat and verdict.

Integration concept: national integration means equal citizenship, constitutional loyalty, accommodation and peaceful membership across diversity. It is not cultural uniformity, majoritarian assimilation or a free-standing authority to suppress dissent. Constitutional spine: the Preamble's fraternity, dignity, unity and integrity operate with equality, freedoms, minority rights, DPSPs, Fundamental Duties, federalism, asymmetry and local participation. S. R. Bommai preserves federalism and secularism as basic features. Security boundary: Articles 355 and 356, public-order law and security statutes remain subject to legality, necessity, proportionality, federal limits and judicial review. Identity, grievance, regionalism, communalism, separatism and violence require distinct diagnosis. NIC status, checked 5 September 2026: the National Integration Council is extra-constitutional, non-statutory and advisory. The official Lok Sabha reply dated 4 August 2026 identifies 23 September 2013 as its latest meeting; no later meeting or formal abolition is asserted. Foreign-affairs competence: Article 51 supplies non-justiciable DPSP values. Article 73 extends Union executive power within constitutional limits; Article 246 and Union List Entries 10-21 allocate core foreign affairs subjects; Article 253 permits Parliament to implement international obligations notwithstanding ordinary federal distribution. Treaty/domestic-law chain: executive conclusion of an international commitment does not automatically amend domestic law or override rights. Existing law may permit implementation; legislation is needed where law or rights must change, and constitutional amendment is required where the Constitution itself must change. Case controls: Berubari requires constitutional amendment for cession of Indian territory; Maganbhai distinguishes executable boundary settlement from legal change; Jolly George rejects automatic treaty override; Gramophone favours harmony absent conflict; Vishaka permits consistent international norms to fill a domestic-law vacuum. Policy boundary: non-alignment, strategic autonomy, neighbourhood policy, multilateral reform and Global South advocacy are executive-policy orientations rather than self-executing constitutional rules. The MEA Annual Report 2024-25 is a dated policy source, not a legal code. Integration/foreign-policy link: inclusive institutions strengthen diplomatic legitimacy and resilience; foreign policy can affect domestic cohesion through borders, diaspora, migration, security and development. The connection does not merge the two legal fields. PYQ firewall: adjacent constitutional, federal, security and international-relations PYQs are routed to their principal owners. This topic retains only the integration/constitutional-competence bridge and does not fabricate a direct question.

Advanced · Integration beyond assimilation

GS-II Indian Polity

INTRO & ORIGIN

National integration is equal constitutional membership across diversity. A state-nation model accommodates multiple identities through rights, federalism and asymmetry while maintaining common citizenship and institutions. Accommodation must still satisfy equality, democratic accountability and state capacity.

Advanced · Security and constitutional loyalty

GS-II Indian Polity

INTRO & ORIGIN

Security action is strongest when embedded in legality, necessity, proportionality, review and remedy. Article 355 does not erase rights; Article 356 remains exceptional and reviewable under S. R. Bommai. Dissent, migration and regional identity must not be treated as presumptive disloyalty.

Advanced · Treaty accountability

GS-II Indian Polity

INTRO & ORIGIN

Executive flexibility under Article 73 and implementation power under Article 253 create capacity but also a scrutiny gap. A treaty-publication law, impact assessments, parliamentary committee review and structured State consultation would improve legitimacy without transferring foreign competence to States.

Advanced · Strategic autonomy

GS-II Indian Polity

INTRO & ORIGIN

Strategic autonomy is decision independence under interdependence. It requires diversified partnerships, domestic technological and defence capacity, resilient supply chains and issue-based coalitions. 'Multi-alignment' is analytical shorthand, not a constitutional or binding official doctrine.
